NATIONS JOIN IN PROTESTING GERMAN ARMS

CENSURE URGED AT LEAGUE MEETING IN GENEVA

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
(Copyright 1935, By The Associated Press)

Geneva, April 16—France, Britain and Italy today asked the League of Nations to censure Adolf Hitler for rearming Germany in violation of treaties, and punish nations which repudiate treaties in the future.

A resolution the three powers jointly introduced at today's session of the league council asserted Germany had failed "in the duty which lies upon all members of the international community to respect the undertakings they have contracted."

France, in a memorandum accompanying the resolution, declared flatly "the German initiative of March 16 (Hitler's renewal of compulsory military service) must be condemned."

Germany Threatens

(A German government spokesman said at Berlin: "You may be certain if this goes through the League of Nations, Germany never will rejoin it.")

The tri-power resolution declared Germany's rearmament equivalent to repudiation of the treaty of Versailles and condemned in unequivocal language "any unilateral repudiation of international obligations."

The resolution did not condemn Germany directly, France and the co-sponsors of the resolution contenting themselves with assailing all treaty violations. This was regarded here as an effort to take some of the sting out of the document.

German circles here, however were quick to declare the resolution too strong. It will hinder Germany's participation in collective peace arrangements, they said.

Dissension among members of the council flared up immediately after introduction of the resolution, which Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon of England and Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy all supported in speeches.

Joseph Beck, foreign minister of Poland, pointed out that the Warsaw government has taken no part in negotiations leading up to the present situation and said Poles were suspicious of demands for new peace accords such as were proposed in the resolution.

No vote was taken on the resolution today, the council adjourning until tomorrow after debating it briefly.

The tri-power resolution, after arguing that "scrupulous respect of all treaty obligations" is fundamental in international life and essential to the maintenance of peace, declared no power "can liberate itself from the engagements of a treaty nor modify the stipulations thereof unless with the consent of the other contracting parties."

Germany's restoration March 16 of military conscription, banned by the Versailles treaty, "conflicts" with the principle, the resolution continued, and her unilateral action "must necessarily appear to be a threat to European peace."

The document then pointed out that Germany took her action while negotiations for putting into effect the Anglo-French security plan drafted February 3 were going on.

Governor May Ask Pressure From Public

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Mich., April 16 (AP)—Governor Fitzgerald may appeal for pressure from the public to bring his economy bills onto the floor of the house, he indicated today.

The governor reiterated he is not demanding, at this time, that either Democrats or Republicans vote for the bills. He said he is only requesting that they be released from committee pigeon holes so the full membership may go on record as for or against the bills he claims would cut millions from governmental expenditures through consolidations of departments.

George A. Schroeder, Democratic speaker of the house, said he probably will have something to say about the governor's demand for action Wednesday. He has been conferring with floor leaders. About a half dozen of the measures the governor views as the most important in his reform program are lodged in Democratic controlled house committees.

Drive On Radicalism

The governor makes a "monthly accouncing" and may discuss the committee deadlock in his next report if necessary.

The legislature continued its drive against radicalism in publicly supported educational institutions. A resolution was introduced in the house by Rep. Charles D. Pullen, Republican, Mt. Pleasant, proposing that students refusing to take an oath of allegiance be marred from all state colleges.

The house passed and sent to the senate a bill partially reviving the former practice of advertising tax sales. Instead of publishing the description of each delinquent parcel of land, however, the measure calls for a general advertisement, of not more than twenty inches, calling attention to the fact sales will be held and designating the place where descriptions may be found.

The house approved and transmitted to the senate the Priest bill authorizing the establishment of vocational camps for paroled or probationary prisoners. Inmates would be limited to young, first offenders.

The Glass bill proposing a constitutional convention was reported favorably to the floor of the house. The bill calls for a referendum in the 1936 general election. The committee on revision of the constitution also reported a resolution to amend the constitution to provide for reorganization of county government and another which would extend the term of state officers from two to four years after 1940.

In joint convention the legislature ratified the report of the recount committee declaring Fremont Evans, Democrat, winner by 12 votes for the circuit judgeship in Berrien county. He defeated Charles E. White, Republican, incumbent.

GUNMEN SLAY CHICAGO MAN

Mowed Down With Blast From Shotgun on North Side

Chicago, April 16. (AP)—Shotgun assassins killed a man identified as John Donahue, 35, tonight after calling to him from a slowly moving automobile.

Donahue, his head, back, body and legs pierced by shotgun slugs as he turned to run, was still alive as police from a station less than a block away reached him. He died enroute to a hospital.

After a brief burst of fire the gunmen sped away. The shooting occurred almost in front of the house where Donahue was living, near Halsted steet on the north side.

Sgt. Everett Mullaney, the first officer to reach Donahue, said the man was walking near the street corner when the large car drew up to the curb.

One of three men in the car called out a name.

Donahue turned, walked toward the car, and then with a shout of fear turned and ran. He took less than half a dozen steps before three blasts from shotguns roared from the car. He fell dying.

The street shooting was the second in four days. Saturday afternoon a gunman ignoring scores of pedestrians, fired three shots into the body of Sanford (Gimp) Rosenbaum, former bodyguard of Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, after a brief argument.

Rosenbaum appeared in court today on a stretcher to protest against his detention by the police. Officials said there was no apparent connection between the Rosenbaum shooting and the slaying tonight.

A Vanishing Politician

JOHN GILLESPIE MISSING AGAIN

Former Millionaire Still Peeved Over Rebuke From Governor

Traverse City, Mich., April 16. (AP)—John Gillespie, former multi-millionaire police commissioner of Detroit who tramped the woods for 11 days smarting over a rebuke from Michigan's governor, disappeared again today.

Former State Senator Achard, at whose ranch house Gillespie was found yesterday at the conclusion of a 12-day search, said the once influential politician vanished today, leaving no word of his destination.

Achard said he asked Col. Roy O. Vandercock, former head of the Michigan state police, to notify Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald at once.

"John has been making a lot of wild statements about the governor," Achard explained. "I thought he was over it, but I am playing safe. I wanted the governor to know that I am no longer responsible for John."

Growth of Beard

In Lansing, Oscar G. Olander, head of the state police, said his organization was taking no part in any further search for Gillespie. A state police guard posted at the executive offices after Gillespie's first disappearance, because of remarks interpreted by some persons as threats, still was on duty.

When Gillespie was found yes-

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press)

Senator Long's war with the administration flared anew with Secretary Ickes threatento cancel all PWA projects in Louisiana if Long was permitted to control the program in that state.

The securities commission declared war on stock manipulations by seeking closer regulation of the practice by all stock exchanges.

Farm administration officials termed recent attacks on the AAA as directed against the entire new deal program.

Senator Harrison reiterated that his compromise bonus bill would meet approval of President Roosevelt.

Use of $800,000,000 from work relief funds for low cost housing and rural relief was planned by public works and relief officials.

Speaker Byrns, in an extraordinary speech to the house, hinted at a possible reduction in taxes on smaller corporations to offset levies planned under the social security bill.

Dr. Walton Hamilton, NRA board member, seeking to refute monopoly charges against the recovery organization, said the new law would strengthen rather than weaken the anti-trust laws.

The senate munitions committee completed its public investigation and planned closed sessions to write its own drastic program into the McSwain anti-war profits bill.

Senate banking leaders split over the omnibus banking bill provision for greater control in Washington, prepared to open hearings on it this week.

SUIT FOR HEART BALM OPPOSED

State Senate Approves Palmer Bill; Vote Is 20-11

BY SAM B. McCOOL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Mich., April 16. (AP)—A bill to abolish heart-balm suits rode through the senate today over the protests of a viciferous minority.

By a vote of 20 to 11, the membership passed and sent to the house the Palmer bill to abolish litigation for breach of promise and alienation of affections. The measure was defeated last week but its sponsor, Senator William Palmer, Democrat, Flint, resurrected the bill today.

The senate's two bachelors—Adolph F. Heidkamp, Republican, Lake Linden, and Palmer—again paired their vote, Senator Palmer voted for the bill while Heidkamp opposed it.

Senator Joseph A. Baldwin, Republican, Albion, vigorously led the opposition to the measure. "This bill if enacted," he said, "will mark a milestone in the moral and legal retrogression in this state.

Urges Against Haste

"I am perfectly aware that a class of people known as gold-diggers have abused the law. But will this bill correct the abuse? In the words of the song, I say, 'No, no, a thousand times no.' The gold-diggers will resort to other means just as the bootleggers evaded the prohibition law. Do you members of the senate think that the gold-diggers will go back to Sunday School?"

Baldwin suggested that Michigan withhold action on the proposal until the next session of the legislature. He said that New York and Indiana, which have enacted similar statutes, have "given us an excellent laboratory but we don't know what the results will be."

As the measure passed, it abolishes civil causes of action for breach of promise, alienation of affections, criminal conversation, and seduction. Senator Harry F. Hittle, Republican, Lansing, made an unsuccessful attempt to remove the seduction provision.

SUCCEEDS CARROLL

Lansing, Mich., April 16. (AP)—John S. McDonald, chairman of the state liquor control commission, announced today the appointment of Harry F. Kelly, former assistant prosecutor of Wayne county, as district manager of the Detroit area. He succeeds George C. Carroll, of Detroit, who resigned to go into private business.

AAA BATTLING FOR LIFE, RAPS AT OPPONENTS

ENTIRE NEW DEAL AT STAKE, SAY OFFICIALS

BY STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 16 (AP)—With its active life threatened by simultaneous attacks from several quarters, the AAA slashed back today with a charge that its opposition was directed against the entire new deal.

Chester C. Davis, farm administrator, asserted flatly to newspapermen that public utilities and other business organizations were lending their support to a drive by processors and distributors of farm commodities, and that attacks on the cotton processing tax were being used as a spearhead.

"They are aiding in the fight and accepting a credit memorandum for assistance rendered" he said in referring specifically to public utilities.

Sides Now Forming

Other AAA officials agreed. They insisted that in protecting the AAA they were defending an outpost and that other phases of the Roosevelt program would be attacked subsequently if the drive on the AAA succeeded.

Meanwhile, cotton textile mill owners and southern farm organizations lined up on opposite sides, with Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgie supporting millmen. He announced at Atlanta that he was preparing to stump the cotton belt "to put a stop to this processing tax" on cotton.

In reply, C. W. Ashcraft, executive vice president of the Alabama farm bureau federation, said at Montgomery that his organization planned a protest campaign to counteract "insidious attacks on the agricultural adjustment act by interests opposed to agricultural welfare and national recovery."

AAA officials said they had received similar pledges of support from farmers attending the meeting of southern agricultural commissioners at Jackson, Miss., and a group of 150,000 Texas cotton growers.

James Sinclair, president of the Fall River, Mass., Cotton Manufacturer's association, who declared yesterday he would rather go to jail than pay the cotton tax, asserted he would close his mill and discharge 750 employees as a protest against the levy.

Privately AAA officials expressed fear that concentration of attacks on the cotton tax in congress will result in its abandonment. They said that other processing levies probably would be centered on in turn.

Nor was there any comfort in word regarding the AAA amendments.

Senator Smith (D-SC), chairman of the senate agriculture committee added that the chances of passage were highly problematical. Secretary Wallace said after testifying before the house agriculture committee on the Jones bill to finance tenant ownership of farm homes that "we still want them," but a prominent house member said he saw little prospect for their enactment.

The amendments are aimed at plugging up holes in the adjustment act discovered during the past two years of operation and the many court actions which have resulted from efforts to enforce it.

Deaf Mute Is Star Witness At Trial

Flint, Mich., April 16. (AP)—The star witness here today in a coroner's inquest into a fatal accident never said a word. He was Arthur Dasse, a deaf mute.

Patrolman Henry Beach, an expert in the sign language, translated the testimony of Dasse's flying fingers for Dr. Frank Ware, coroner, and a jury of six men.

The jury, in its verdict, found that Henry Blight, 50, had been killed by the automobile of Nick Karas, as Dasse testified. Karas had said he did not believe his car struck the man.

Train Service In Bucharest Crippled

Bucharest, Rumania, April 16. (AP)—Bucharest's train service was paralyzed for seven hours this afternoon when more than 2,000 students occupied the Northern railway station demanding a special train to take them to the annual students' congress at Craiova. Troops were called out and surrounded the station.

Finally the demand for the special train was granted and train service was resumed after its departure

No Verdict Likely Before Midsummer In Ore Pool Case

Chicago, April 16 (AP)—Evidence for and against a proposed change in the handling of ore shipments by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad from the Menominee iron range in the upper peninsula was completed today before Examiner C. E. Stiles of the interstate commerce commission.

A decision will not be reached before mid-summer, however, and meanwhile the Milwaukee road will continue to route its trains over the tracks of the Escanaba & Lake Superior railroad to its own docks at Escanaba, Mich.

The petition before the I. C. C. asks approval of a contract by which the Milwaukee road and the Chicago & North Western railroad would consolidate their ore shipments and use only the North Western's docks at Escanaba, where the ore is loaded into lake freighters.

Employes Are Heard

Opposing the proposal were the E. & L. S., which rents its tracks to the Milwaukee road, and the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

The final day of the hearing was devoted largely to the opposition of railroad employes to the plan. The E. & L. S. terminal is at Channing, Mich., and Milwaukee road employes who handle ore trains reside there.

Charles E. Marsh, locomotive engineer, testified that under the proposed "pooling" of ore traffic over the North Western's lines, rail workers residing in Channing no longer could enjoy home life, would have uncertain hours, and might have to make their homes in other cities. Added to that, he said, was uncertainty as to whether they would have employment at all under the proposed plan.

Examined by S. A. Boone of Boone, Iowa, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Marsh said that if he were forced to sell his home he could not get more than 40 per cent of its value. He was not permitted to testify concerning the homes of other Milwaukee road employes living at Channing. Marsh said, however, in general the other rail employes at Channing were opposed to a change.

The petitioning railroads offered in rebuttal evidence that even if the Milwaukee road discontinued use of the E. & L. S. tracks, it would continue to pay a yearly rental under contract sufficient to maintain the E. & L. S. tracks. The sum it would pay annually was $27,000 for rent and about $2,000 as various other charges.

This information was offered by C. E. Oliphant, statistician for the Milwaukee road, who contended less maintenance would be required after discontinuance of ore traffic.

PLANE HEADS FOR HONOLULU

Big Clipper Ship Will Blaze Airline to Orient

Alameda, Calif., April 16 (AP)—The giant clipper "Pioneer," commercial aviation's challenge to the Pacific ocean, was roaring across the 2,400-mile span of water toward Honolulu tonight, apparently with all the ease of a short pleasure flight.

Frequent reports of the flying boat's progress were flashed by radio to Pan American headquarters here as the ship moved into darkness on the first leg of a proposed trans-Pacific commercial airline to the Orient.

The takeoff at 3:50 p. m. (6:50 p. m. eastern standard time) was without the least show of tenseness by the clipper's six-man crew, which considered the flight a routine extension of already existing airlines.

Messages of the plane's progress were almost as routine, and, except for mention of a sunset above the clouds at 7:30 p. m., and moonlight later, were confined to position, speed and weather.

Ship Getting Lighter

At 9 p. m. (midnight eastern standard time), the ship was nearing the one-third mark of its flight to Honolulu. Its position at 8:30 p. m. four hours and 40 minutes after the takeoff, was 712 miles out, an average of about 152 miles per hour.

The 41,500 pounds weight of the plane when it soared away from here was being lightened at the rate of about 720 pounds per hour by gasoline and oil consumption.

Four powerful motors, developing 2,800 horsepower, whirled the big propellers as several thousand spectators eagerly watched the start of the pion-

Seeks To Finance Fight For Child

Miami, Fla., April 16. (AP)—Clara Iler, 19-year-old widowed mother, fruitlessly sought employment today to finance her fight to regain custody of her baby girl, Patricia Lou, now in Tulsa, Okla.

"I am without funds to employ an attorney if a court fight is necessary to get Patty," said Mrs. Iler, "but I am going to do everything possible to bring my baby home to me."

The baby, without the knowledge of the mother, was placed in the care of a Tulsa, Okla., woman by the father, William Iler, 23. Iler, Michigan state parole violator and bandit suspect, was shot to death by police here in February.

The mother has been trying to trace the child since then.

Advices from Tulsa were that juvenile authorities knew the whereabouts of the child, now five months old, but declined to reveal the information without a court order.

Navigation Opens Through Soo Locks

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 16. (AP)—The steamer L. E. Block of the Inland Steamship Co., locked through the St. Mary's Falls Canal today to open the canal navigation season 13 days earlier than the date of opening in 1934.

The Canadian freighter Starmount locked through behind the Block. Neither ship will attempt passage through upper river ice until better conditions prevail. Captain Joseph Matthews of the Block said he would attempt passage when a moderate northwest wind abates.

The Block is bound for Marquette, while the Starmount is going to Fort William, Ont.

ICKES CLAIMS LONG MUST BE DENIED FUNDS

SAYS HUEY WOULD STRENGTHEN HIS MACHINE

Washington, April 16 (AP)—Declaring open warfare on Senator Long of Louisiana, Secretary Ickes today threatened to cancel all public works projects in Louisiana and was told that he could "go slap damn to hell."

The verbal slaps the two delivered at each other across the considerable distance between Washington and Baton Rouge appeared likely to develop into a political duel of some national significance. Long has been warring against the administration. The return blows until today generally have been considered light.

Asserting here that PWA funds "won't be used to build up Senator Long's political machine," Ickes added to reporters:

"If Senator Long is going to dictate to us how we shall conduct the PWA program in Louisiana we reserve the right to cancel our contracts."

At Baton Rouge, Long told the interior secretary to seek lower and warmer regions and added:

"I'll answer all these cabinet members and senators on the floor of the senate Monday."

The sizzling exchange followed an attempt by Long to have the Louisiana legislature—well under control—pass a bill to give his organization virtual control of future PWA and other federal work relief programs.

There already are $37,344,838 of public works allotments to Louisiana of which $11,004,600 are to the state and localities and $26,340,238 are for federal projects.

Ickes was discussing specifically a loan by PWA of $1,800,000 to the New Orleans sewer and water board, headed by Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, on a $2,570,000 sewage project. He said that PWA had made the allotment to the sewer and water board and if that were dissolved by the "Longlature" there would be no contract and "we will take back the money."

The secretary referred to Long as "the emperor of Louisiana" and added:

"PWA funds haven't been used to set up a political machine anywhere, and they won't be used that way in Louisiana—they certainly won't be used to build up Senator Long's political machine."

In Baton Rouge, where he was swinging his legislature into action, Long's first retort was that the secretary could "go slap damn to hell."

"These are the same bills we put in to see there was no graft in the state highway commission by having a non-partisan board pass upon state expenditures," said Long.

WANTS MORE POWER

Baton Rouge, La., April 16 (AP)—Senator Huey Long today threatened impeachment of three Louisiana supreme court judges for "judicial crookedness" and wrathfully dared the national administration to withdraw public works administration loans from the state.

The senator also was busy directing the passage of 26 more "dictatorship" bills, one designed to place relief monies under control of the state administration which he directs through Governor O. K. Allen.

It was during a house committee hearing on his bills that the senator caused a stir by announcing definitely he would seek removal of Chief Justice Charles A. O'Neill and Justices Fred M. Odom and Wynne G. Rogers. He charged they would "decide one thing one day and something else the next day."

"I am going to advocate their impeachment and removal," he said. "This legislature is of the humor of doing something about it. I don't know whether we shouldn't take it up and do something for the people. Something has got to be done with the crooked jurisprudence in this state."

Considered most drastic of Long's present legislation is a bill designed to give him absolute control of polling machinery throughout the state on election day.

BREMER TELLS OF ABDUCTION

St. Paul Banker Relates Vivid Story in Federal Court

St. Paul, April 16 (AP)—Edward G. Bremer publicly related for the first time today his own vivid account of how he was kidnaped, beaten, threatened with death and held captive for 21 horror-filled days.

Facing ten persons on trial for participation in his $200,000 abduction, the St. Paul banker told the graphic inside story of his gruelling experience from the witness stand in a federal court room.

Bremer's testomony reached a high point when he related his kidnapers had told him they had been offered a "certain amount of money" to turn him over to another mob. He did not identify the bargaining gang.

"After giving me instructions to count 15 slowly before removing my goggles," the witness stated, "I was told that they had kept their promise. (To release Bremer) they said they had been offered a certain amount of money to turn me over to another gang."

Slugged With Pistol

Arthur (Doc) Barker, scion of a notorious family and co-leader with the fugitive public enemy No. 1 Alvin Karpis of the underworld group accused of engineering the Bremer snatch, scowled at the banker and fixed a steady eye upon him.

The 37-year-old banker said he

Oppose Efficiency In Relief Factories

Springfield, Mo., April 16 (AP)—J. Warren Sanders, Greene county FERA director, said today there must not be too much efficiency in relief work.

He discarded plans for speeding up production of the fodder mill tannery, cannery, mattress works and the 31 other units he operates here—plans which, ironically enough, were submitted by some of his own relief workers.

"Our greatest job is to keep them from becoming too efficient," he explained. "There must be a certain amount of inefficiency in work-relief projects, in order that as many men as possible may be kept at work."

FIRE PERMITS ARE REQUIRED

Must Secure Permission to Burn Brush in Forest Zones

Burning permits are not ordinarily required in those areas of Michigan which are not in the forest fire zone, explains the Field Administration Division, Department of Conservation.

Under the law all persons starting fires in the open when the ground is not covered with snow, except when the fires are used for domestic purposes or to protect persons or property in case of fire, must ask for a burning permit from conservation authorities.

This law was enacted to apply to the forest fire zone, which roughly exists north of a line drawn from Muskegon across the state to Bay City. In most places below that line burning permits are not required to start a fire in the open, but it would be desirable if the advice of the local conservation officer were obtained previous to the burning of areas of more than an acre. The burning of swamps, fence rows, brush piles, etc., is destructive to particularly during the spring nesting season.

A campfire, which is under careful guard, is construed as a fire started for domestic purposes, says the Field Administration Division.

VERDICT WILL BE IN SUMMER FOR ORE CASE

been used in handling ore traffic by the Milwaukee road over the E. & L. S. tracks during the past four years, D. W. Kelly, Milwaukee, general superintendent of the Milwaukee road, testified.

Would Split Revenue

It was brought out by G. W. Hand, assistant to the Milwaukee road president, that only ore hauled to the North Western's docks at Escanaba would come under the "pooling" arrangement. The proposed contract between the roads calls for a division of the revenue.

C. E. Crook, Chicago, made a brief appearance to read a statement opposing the proposed contract on the ground that it would reduce the number of jobs. He said he was vice president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes.

The Milwaukee road has used the E. & L. S. tracks between Channing and Escanaba about 30 years. The track was extended to meet the Milwaukee's needs and improved to withstand the heavy traffic. The Milwaukee road has paid for 82 per cent of such improvements.

Loss of the ore traffic over the E. & L. S. would bring abandonment of the line with attendant loss of other service to patrons along its 63 miles of track, opponents of the proposed pooling contended. The Milwaukee road's Escanaba docks would be abandoned.

The petitioners argued that they needed the change in the interests of economy and efficiency. The North Western road has a double track from Escanaba into the iron range.

Counsel for the petitioners asked that no proposed report be made in advance of the commission's final decision in order to bring the decision as quickly as possible. The proposed change would go into effect soon after approval. Originally the petitioners had hoped for a decision in time to handle this year's ore traffic under the proposed plan.

Paraguay Gains In Attack On Bolivia

Asuncion, April 16 (AP)—Bitter fighting in three sectors of the Chaco front culminated today in the fall of Charagua, important town in the Bolivian department of Santa Cruz, the war ministry announced.

A large deposit of munitions and other war supplies was captured along with the town, which previously had been set afire by the Paraguayan artillery bombardment, it was said.

The announcement of Charagua's fall came at the climax of a day of brisk fighting in which some of the town's buildings were set afire by enemy shells.

The fighting at Villamontes and Boyuibe was reported proceeding on the same lines established after the Paraguayan advance to the vicinity of Villamontes in January, but the engagement at Charagua in the north takes the Paraguayan offense deep into Bolivian territory.

This town is the first important civilian town the Paraguayans have approached in Bolivia.

Tax Collections Given To Counties

Lansing, Mich., April 16. (AP)—Automobile weight tax collections totalling $8,557,303 were being turned back to Michigan's 83 counties today.

The sum represents collections for the first quarter of 1935 and is $2,650,581 in excess of the amount returned for the first quarter of last year.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, with the endorsement of Auditor General John J. O'Hara, has adopted a policy of paying the full amount of weight tax to the counties for the first quarter. Last year weight tax refunds in many cases were held as an offset against delinquent property tax collections due the state from the counties.

Optometrists Hold Annual Convention

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 16 (AP)—The Michigan Society of Optometrists, in the final session of its annual convention today, urged enactment of legislation to raise the standards of the profession.

A delegation was sent to Lansing in the interests of a pending bill which would require additional education and training for licensed optometrists and "eliminate such objectionable and unethical practices as price advertising."

INDUSTRY CUTS RELIEF ROSTER

Automobile Trade Boom Helps Nearly 130,000 Michigan Residents

BY R. E. STROTHER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Detroit, April 13 (AP)—The automobile industry was credited today with removing nearly 130,000 residents of Southern Michigan from the relief rolls since January 1.

Motor car plants and allied industries in the Detroit region employed 28,497 heads of families then on the welfare rolls, said Dr. William Haber, state director of relief. He based his estimate of the total reduction in relief cases by using 4.2 as the average number of persons per family.

Wayne and Oakland counties, large centers in the automotive industry, set the pace in restoring relief families to a self-supporting basis. Oakland county reported a 30.8 per cent reduction in the number of families on relief, and Wayne county, including Detroit, 28.9 per cent.

Employs 650 Men

Dr. Haber pointed out that the figures were as of March 22, and did not reflect the full improvement which took place during the first quarter. Benjamin J. Tobin, deputy welfare administrator here, announced that one motor plant had employed 650 men whose families were on relief during the last few days, making possible the removal of 2,709 persons from the rolls.

"Co-operation between the welfare department and Detroit's industrial plants has reached a higher degree within the last few months than ever before," Tobin said. "Many employment managers now give us a good share of jobs to be filled as their production moves forward."

The relief office here pointed out, however, that Detroit still was administering relief to 34,900 families and that the problem remained grave.

Plants Expanding

For the state as a whole, the net reduction in relief cases during the first quarter amounted to 26,384 families or 110,000 persons, a survey by the relief administration showed. Since increases were reported in some of the northern counties of the state. The total was 13 per cent lower than the year-end figures.

Forty eight counties reported fewer cases and 34 showed an increase, with most of the improvement confined to 12 southern counties, all of them heavily industrial.

The production of motor cars and trucks remains at the highest levels in five years, with the output about 20,000 units a week. Plant expansion as well as increased production is a factor in the improvement employment situation.

Reichert Will Be Asked To Remain

Lansing, Mich., April 16 (AP)—Governor Fitzgerald disclosed today he intends to ask Rudolph E. Reichert, of Ann Arbor, to remain as state banking commissioner.

The governor appoints the bank commissioner for a term of two years. Reichert, who has held the position since his appointment by former Governor Fred W. Green in 1927, faces the end of his term May 6.

The governor refused to say whether Reichert would be reappointed for the full two-year period.

Horde Of Insects Come With Snow

Richmond, Va., April 16 (AP)—It not only snowed today—it appeared to rain bugs.

West end residents observed that an area of nearly two square miles suddenly became infested with small beetle-like insects after the snow.

The state department of entomology stated that the insects were a specie of fly.

PLANE HEADS FOR HONOLULU

eering hop.

Apparently flying slowly, the Clipper nevertheless forced a dozen accompanying planes to race in keeping up with it as it passed over San Francisco and out the Golden Gate.

There were only a few scattered clouds enroute, and no adverse winds.

"The fliers will have very good weather for the next 24 to 36 hours," said Major Edward H. Bowie, United States weather forecaster at San Francisco.

With a cruising speed of between 150 and 160 miles an hour, the plane was expected to reach Honolulu in between 16 and 18 hours.

The Clipper weighed 41,500 pounds and carried 3,000 gallons of gasoline and 300 gallons of oil, enough to take it 3,200 miles.

It also carried 102 pounds of mail, or 8,000 letters sent by philatelists from all over the world.

Refuse To Give Up Abandoned Child

Tulsa, Okla., April 16. (AP)—Patricia Lou Iler, five months old, placidly sucked a thumb in her crib today while court officials supported her foster parents in their refusal to give her up.

The baby was abandoned here three months ago by Mr. and Mrs. William Iler as they fled from officers who sought the father as a parole violator from Muskegon, Mich. The father later was killed in Florida.

County Judge Fischer said he would not attempt to take the child from the couple which has had custody of her for 10 weeks unless the mother is able to prove that she will take proper care of and is a suitable person to rear a child. The mother has written several letters from Miami pleading for the infant.

The court also has refused to disclose the name of the couple which has adopted the child.

Three Mowed Down By Drunken Driver

Detroit, April 16 (AP)—An automobile mowed down a family of three in front of the police station of suburban Lincoln Park today, killing a 24-year-old mother and seriously injuring her husband and their daughter, 4. A fourth pedestrian also was injured.

The dead woman was Mrs. Lillian Kaucic, Kaucic, 27-year-old automobile factory worker, and the child, Marie, were severely cut and bruised. The three were returning from a grocery store, the little girl riding her tricycle.

The fourth victim of the accident, John N. Golden, 72, received a broken collar bone when the death car struck a parked machine and careened against him before coming to a halt.

Lincoln Park police who arrested the driver of the car, William P. McMillan, 60, said that he had been drinking. Assistant Prosecutor John A. Mowatt said he would recommend a manslaughter warrant Wednesday.

7 Miners Feared Dead In Explosion

Stelarton, N. C., April 16 (AP)—Seven miners were believed to have been killed today in a terrific explosion that hurled hundreds of tons of rock and coal down their diggings in the Allan shaft of the Acadia Coal company.

In 1918 there were 88 men killed in the same shaft.

The men were entombed 1,500 feet underground. Rescue workers' efforts to reach them through a heavy barrier of fallen debris were futile. Fellow workers expressed believed the men had been killed outright.

Supt. D. McLean said all others of the 196 miners were accounted for.

One theory was that the explosion originated in a "shot" of powder used to loosen coal.

Brain Electricity May Lead to Epilepsy Cure

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Detroit, April 12 (AP)—A Harvard discovery that epilepsy causes in the brain an electrical disturbance of a distinctly traceable pattern was reported to the Federation of American societies for experimental biology here today.

This electrical pattern is recorded on a chart much as are heart beats. It may lead to discovery of the place in the brain where epilepsy originates.

If that can be done it opens the possibility of brain surgical operations for epilepsy.

The experiments were reported by F. A. Gibbs and Hallowell Davis, of the Harvard Medical School. Mr. Gibbs pointed out that there are about 500,000 persons in the United States suffering from epilepsy — about the same number as are ill of tuberculosis.

Neither brain nor body abnormalities to account for epilepsy have been found, despite thousands of medical studies. But the electrical instruments at Harvard reveal abnormal electrical brain currents.

"Various workers in this country and abroad," Mr. Gibbs said, "have developed methods for measuring the very small amounts of electricity which the brain generates.

"When we applied these methods of study to the epileptic patients, we found they were definitely abnormal, for, instead of steadily producing rather small waves of electricity, their brains would suddenly produce a series of large waves.

"In cases of minor epilepsy, these waves were slow, three each second, but in each trough between the slow waves there was a sharp, fast one.

"In cases of major epilepsy, there were a great many fast waves, which tended, however, to clump together into slower waves. These abnormal electric waves are undoubtedly due to disturbed brain action.

"We have tried to find the nature of the disturbance by studying changes that occur in the 'brain waves' of a normal person when he faints, or as he goes to sleep. Under these conditions the normal brain waves become somewhat bigger and slower, but they could not be mistaken for the characteristic pattern of minor epilepsy or major epilepsy."

Mr. Gibbs said it was hoped in the future to locate the part of the brain in which these disturbances start. If that region should turn out to be one not really necessary to a person, then a brain surgeon might be able to remove it. There are parts of the brain already well known whose removal in part does not seem to have serious consequences.

The surgery idea, Mr. Gibbs emphasized, is as yet merely a hope.

State Briefs

Battle Creek, (AP)—Dr. Georgia A. Filley, 64, who pioneered as a medical missionary in China for many years, died Tuesday at the sanitarium. She represented the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church in China in this country, she had served on the staff of the Battle Creek sanitarium and of the Toledo state hospital. Final rites will be in Reed City.

Owosso, (AP)—William H. Westfall, 34 year old World war veteran who for five years has been living in Sturgis, the victim of amnesia, was freed Tuesday from a charge of desertion. His wife, Mildred, withdrew her complaint when she learned of his condition. He is rapidly regaining his memory under the care of physicians.

Ionia, (AP)—Levi Marshall, 75 year old dean of Michigan lumbermen, died Tuesday following a stroke. He had been identified wtih the Marshall Wright Lumber Co. since its establishment in 1885.

Ionia, (AP)—Appointment of Neil Blanker, Grand Rapids, as a night guard at the state reformatory was announced Tuesday. Two guards and the foreman of the institution's tailor shop were dismissed.

Kalamazoo, (AP)—The board of education announced Tuesday that it would restore to teachers in the public schools from 10 to 12 per cent of the salary cuts which have been imposed since 1931. The actual reduction has amounted to 34 per cent, including the loss from the early closing of schools last year.

Kalamazoo, (AP)—Three 15 year old boys and their 16 year old leader were arrested Tuesday and officers announced the youthful quartet had confessed plans to rob a grocery store Saturday night. The four also admitted minor robberies in Battle Creek, Galesburg, Plainwell, Niles, South Haven, Schoolcraft and Mendon, the officers said.

Transcontinental Flight Frustrated By Big Dust Storm

Alamosa, Colo., April 16 (AP)—Dust clouds frustrated an attempt of diminutive Laura Ingalls to set a new transcontinental speed record for women on a flight from Los Angeles to New York today.

Lost in the haze, she was forced to land her black "Mystery" monoplane at this small farming and ranching town in the San Luis valley of southern Colorado at 5 p. m. (7 p. m. E. S. T.).

"The motor was not functioning properly," she told airport attendants.

Miss Ingalls, in the air almost 11 hours, covered only about one-fourth of the 2,447-mile flight on which Miss Amelia Earhart holds the current women's record of 17 hours, 7 minutes and 30 seconds. She took off from Los Angeles at 5:10 a. m. Pacific time (8:10 a. m. E. S. T.).

The 120-pound brunette pilot was in good spirits when she climbed out of her plane. She circled the field for 10 minutes before gliding to earth.

She was nervous about landing, she said, because of trouble in the past with her retractible landing gear.

She said dust storms to the south caused her failure to complete the hop.

Beaver Island Man Reported Missing

Charlevoix, Mich., April 16 (AP)—State police and county authorities instituted a search tonight for Dan T. Gallagher, 30-year-old resident of Beaver Island, Chicago relatives asked a search for him, reporting that he had been missing since he came here a week ago, en route to Chicago, and had not arrived at his destination.

Britain Considers Decimal Coinage

London, April 16 (AP)—Britain's baffling monetary system—whose sixpences, shillings and halfcrowns bewilder visitors from abroad — may ultimately give place to the American decimal system.

A step in that direction was taken today when Sir Isidore Salmon, in the house of commons, asked Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, to set up a committee "to inquire into the question whether decimal coinage, which has been adopted in 57 other countries, would be to the advantage of this country."

Czech Officers Are Arrested In Probe Of Espionage Ring

Praha, Czechoslovakia, April 16 (AP)—A score or more persons, the majority of them said to be Germans, were reported under arrest today as Czechoslovakia continued investigation of an alleged pro-German "espionage syndicate."

At least four of those held, it was said on good authority, are high Czech army officials.

Government authorities continued to observe strictest silence in connection with the asserted spy ring, which first came to light with the arrest of 10 government officials March 1, but it was reliably learned police on the trail of the alleged spies have found an ever-widening espionaige ring.

Publication of news concerning the arrests investigations has strictly prohibited, heavy punishment being threatened for noncompliance.

A comprehensive government statement may be expected, it was said, after the investigations are completed, probably next week.

Jail Guard Kills One Prisoner, Halts Attempted Break

Fort Worth, Tex., April 16 (AP)—A fighting jail guard killed one prisoner, wounded two others and quelled a daring break in the Tarrant county jail today.

Attacked from the rear by three slugging prisoners, Jailer Charles B. Miller opened fire with a pistol. Melvin Bowes, 33, a fugitive from the Florida state prison and owner of a long criminal record, fell dead.

Bullets clipped Clarence B. Billingsley, 23, a jockey, and James Lawrence Kirk, both held on burglary charges. Other prisoners who joined the break fled to cover.

The attempted break was over after four shots had been fired—three hitting prisoners.

Store Proprietor Killed In Holdup

Saginaw, Mich., April 16 (AP)—Carl W. Wolz, proprietor of a second-hand store, died in a hospital here today, apparently the victim of an attack by a robber.

Volz was found unconscious on the floor of his establishment. His pockets in which he habitually carried large sums of money, were turned inside out and the money was gone.

A negro who said he was Eddie White of Indianapolis was taken from a Detroit-bound bus in Flint and held as a suspect in the slaying. Saginaw police had been informed earlier that a negro who appeared nervous had peeled several bills from a large roll to buy a ticket on the bus shortly after the unconscious merchant was found.

BREMER TELLS OF ABDUCTION

had taken his daughter to school Jan. 17, 1934, and was on his way back when his car was stopped at the traffic light. There he was slugged with a pistol butt and despite his frantic struggles, transferred to another machine by his armed abductors. He was driven from morning to night through several states as he lay on the floor of the kidnap car.

Bremer said he continued his attempts to escape but finally ceased his futile efforts when one of the thugs pointed a revolver at him and ordered:

"Don't move or I'll kill you."

The journey ended, according to the government's story, in the Barker-Karpis gang hideout at Bensenville, Ill., a Chicago suburb. It was not until he was led into the bedroom there, Bremer said, that his wounds were treated. He was seated on a chair and his eyes, ears and head bandaged.

U. S. District Attorney George Sullivan asked the banker how many men were in the hideout. Bremer replied:

"Perhaps four, five, six, seven or eight. I heard many voices."

Bremer identified photographs of the "hideout" room by the wallpaper, fixtures and a crack in the wall. He said he visited the place with John Brennan, federal agent, and was certain it was there he was held.

The room is the bedroom of a home occupied by Harold Alderton, another of the defendants.

SUIT FOR HEART BALM OPPOSED

he said, "how the senate, representing 3,000,000 people in this state, can vote to abolish causes of action for seduction. There is not even an age limit in the bill."

Senator D. Hale Brake, Republican, Stanton, claimed the measure invited a "return to the days when there was no redress in the courts and men settled their differences by personal violence."

Senator Palmer answered the critics of his bill by contending that the penal laws offered ample protection for moral abuses.

The vote on the bill was:

For—Senators Bishop, Case, Dunckel, Fehling, Flynn, Gorman, Gray, Mankowski, Matthews, Moore, Murphy, Palmer, Pangborn, Saur, Town, VanderWerp, Van Eenenaam, Wickstrom, Wilkowski, Wood—20.

Against—Baldwin, Brake, Cotter, Dawe, Doyle, Heidkamp, Hittle, Luecke, Mosier, Munshaw, Reid—11.

The German government has reduced by two-thirds the tax on all newly registered oil-fueled trucks and buses of more than 2½-ton capacity.

TRUCK DRIVER BADLY BURNED

Gasoline Can Explodes; Robert Hughes Sent To Hospital

Robert Hughes, 620 South Tenth street, truck-driver for the Northwest Fruit Company, is in St. Francis hospital, suffering from severe burns about both legs below the knee, and minor burns on his hands and face, as the result of a gasoline explosion early Tuesday morning.

Hughes, who was returning from Green Bay, became mired in the road near Nadeau, and, after running the gasoline tank dry in an effort to free the truck, walked back to the nearest filling station for gasoline.

He was returning to the truck in a wrecker, holding the can of gasoline steady with his knees, when the can, thrown forward, as the wrecker hit a bump in the road, struck the dashboard, ignited from the friction and in an instant exploded.

Hughes' presence of mind in kicking the flaming can from the wrecker probably saved his life.

A physician was called and he was given first aid treatment at Nadeau and brought here to the hospital.

Fitzgerald's Fears and Predictions of Others Fail to Materialize as Toy Remains Administration "Regular."

By GUY H. JENKINS

Lansing.—It won't be long before Harry Toy will be running for governor!

That was the general concensus of five minutes after Harry S. Toy was elected attorney general. Close friends of Gov. Fitzgerald were certain that Mr. Toy would take the spotlight soon after Jan. 1 and would hold the center of the stage until the curtain was rung on the governor.

But all the predictions that were made in the campaign and right up to the time of inauguration have failed to prove true. As a matter of fact Toy and Fitzgerald are "justlikethat."

Going back to last fall, Fitzgerald following his primary victory was against Mr. Toy. Toy had been Wayne county prosecutor and was one of the Republicans in the metropolitan area who successfully withstood the Democratic landslide of 1932. It was certain he could get the votes in his home county. He had proved it.

But Fitzgerald not only feared Toy as a possibility to contend with for renomination and election, but he wanted his friend, David H. Crowley, nominated. Just before the Wayne Republican convention was called to order, Fitzgerald let it be known that Crowley would be very agreeable to him for attorney general.

The Toy and Edward N. Barnard forces staged a battle royal in the Detroit Armory to gain control of the Wayne delegation to the state convention at Flint. The fight was carried to the credentials committee, and Barnard and his delegates were refused seats in the convention when the committee recommended seating of the Toy forces.

Toy entered the campaign with a bang. He effectively campaigned the state and, of course, won, making a very creditable showing in Wayne as well as in the outstate districts. His defeat of Patrick H. O'Brien, the left winger of the Comstock administration was very decisive.

WAIT FOR BIG BLOWUP BUT IT DOESN'T COME.

After election the wise ones waited for the big blowup between Toy and Fitzgerald. The governor wanted Emerson R. Boyles assigned to his office to pass on legal questions. Boyles had been deputy under three former attorneys general. Toy said sure and Boyles was appointed.

That was the first gesture, and they have continued to increase. Toy has maintained his position in the administration as befits a good attorney general. He has given Fitzgerald all the consideration possible, taking for himself only the spotlight when he could not stay out of it.

Fitzgerald's relations with Toy have been much more agreeable and pleasant than was the case during the early months of the Comstock administration, when O'Brien insisted on being way out on the left wing, much to the annoyance of the governor. O'Brien had his own ideas of legislative problems and proceeded to advance them regardless of what the attitude of the governor might be with respect to the same subject. However, it must be said in fairness to O'Brien that he did realize that the success of the administration, whatever it might be, would include him and from then on there was complete co-operation between the governor and the attorney general.

Toy has been regular from the first and there has been no indication of any change. So after three months in service the governor and his attorney general are "justlikethat."

LIQUOR PAY ROLLS LARGEST ON RECORD.

Pay rolls are topheavy. The commission should operate with half the force. Now that the election is over with there is no reason to continue the extravagant setup; let's cut down and operate on a business basis.

These are some of the remarks made by Gov. Fitzgerald during the recent controversy over the administration of the liquor commission, in which the governor Chairman John S. McDonald and former Chairman Frank A. Picard participated.

There is no doubt that jobs were handed out by the Democrats last fall to aid their cause. It would not be human unless that were the case.

But state records show that under Chairman McDonald, the Republicans have taken time by the forelock and as a result March pay rolls totaling $119,041.41 were the highest in the history of the commission. The next highest month was December when pay rolls totalled $112,883.84.

PREDICTS REDUCTIONS WILL BE MADE LATER.

"The number of employes may be up a little, probably around 840 to 850, but the 1,136 is not true," the chairman said.

"The reason there has been an increase recently is because of the replacements we have been making. Naturally, when we bring in a new employe we retain the old one to aid in instructing the new member of the staff. Later on the old employe is dropped.

"In some places of course they have doubled up on the inspection force, but that will be changed. As we are now ending the license period in preparation for the new license year, which begins May 1 we have had to add to that division to take care of the rush.

"As soon as the licenses have been issued that division, of course, will be greatly reduced. But those figures for March can't be right."

NOW SHOE SEEMS TO BE UPON THE OTHER FOOT.

Picard contended the Republicans misrepresented the facts when they said he had 1,000 on his pay rolls. Apparently, the Republicans were not far wrong. The report shows 919. Of course technically Picard was not a member of the commission last November but he was doing a lot of bossing for a non-member. He continued in that capacity until the Republicans actually took control.

McDonald took charge in December. The pay rolls were reduced. In December they carried 841 names compared with 919 for November. Probably thinking Gov. Fitzgerald only was kidding about operating the state's liquor business with half the Picard force, the needy Republican boys and girls were given places and by the end of March the number reached 1,136, the figure denied by Chairman McDonald.

FITZGERALD PUTS IT UP TO COMMISSION.

Gov. Fitzgerald is putting it right up to McDonald and the other commission members to run the state's business. He stopped signing liquor orders some time ago and turned over to McDonald all the applications he had received from job hunters looking for appointment as manager of the Detroit branch.

"If things go wrong I can't hold the commission responsible if I am selecting the Detroit branch manager of filling any other job," the governor said. "Now supposing things should blow up in Detroit. Well, they only would have to say, 'you appointed the manager; he is your man.' Not for me. They will make the appointment and I will hold them responsible. That is the only way the state's business should be run."

FEAR PRECEDENT SET BY SAGINAW MINERS.

Michigan was treated this week to the first demonstration for legislation that it has had in years. About 600 coal miners from the Saginaw valley marched on the capitol to force action on the Dole-Cotter bill to compel the use of Michigan-mined coal in state institutions. They got a bill of disputed value. But the point is that other groups similarly inclined, through force of numbers, might take it upon themselves to do the same thing.

The miners' demonstration could have been avoided had Hugh E. Lillie, secretary of the administrative board, continued the orders placed with the valley operators. Lillie, of course, contends use of Michigan coal is very expensive compared with that from Kentucky and West Virginia. But the state probably will waste as much money on some other governmental functions before this administration finishes, as the additional cost of using Michigan-mined coal.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE BETWEEN JOINT MEETS.

The house and senate joint convention to authorize the recount of the votes cast for circuit judge in Berrien county was as much different from that staged last December as day is from night.

On all the necessary roll calls there was but one negative vote Senator Leon D. Case, Democrat of Watervliet, prepared the necessary resolutions and sponsored them. They went sailing along. Last December when the Democrats tried to recount the votes cast for secretary of state and attorney general the whole affair ended in a grand jury investigation, which still is in progress.

As one house member said in explaining the difference in the procedure the judgeship candidates seeking the recount "came in with clean hands."

Trees Replaced In Memory Lane; Flowers Planned

Assurance has been given the Escanaba American Legion post by the county highway commission that missing trees in Memory Lane, west of the city on US-2, will be replaced this spring by county road workers. County Highway Engineer J. T. Sharpensteen told members of the Legion that the maintenance of Memory Lane fits in with the general program of roadside beautification being carried out all over the state, and that needed trees would be provided to keep the line in Memory Lane unbroken.

The rows of elms on either side of the road were planted originally as a Legion project, each representing a veteran who died in the service. After the planting were completed, the highway commission took over the care of the trees. It is planned this year to also plant flowers at points along Memory Lane to further carry out the sentiment of the living memorial.

Seventy-seven billion kilowatt hours of electrical power were produced in this country in 1932, as compared with 89,000,000,000 in 1930.

WORK OF CCC IS DESCRIBED

Activities at Escanaba River Camp Listed for Year

A graphic story of what the Civilian Conservation corps is doing toward the advancement of conservation in Michigan comes from Camp Escanaba River, located near Gwinn, Marquette county.

It is a report from J. F. Logue, camp superintendent, to George A. Young, in charge of the Michigan Emergency Conservation Work office in Lansing, and lists the projects undertaken by this camp during the year April 1, 1934 to April 1, 1935.

While no mention is made in reports from any of the CCC camps of the actual benefits afforded the enlistees in practical application of conservation methods, it is known that upwards of 200 young men at the Gwinn unit alone learned the value of stream and lake improvement, the importance of building fire lines, keeping fire out of the woods and slash disposal.

Work accomplishments for the year at Gwinn camp include the following:

Truck-trail construction, 43 miles; culverts installed, 90; tap ditches, one mile; general maintenance on truck trails, 43 miles; resurfacing truck trails with gravel, five miles; overburden hauled for widening and fills, 1,000 yards; trail-side clearing, 40 miles; slash disposal, 100 acres; telephone line construction, 20 miles; telephone poles transferred to other camps, 1,065; linear survey of truck trails, 43 miles; vehicle bridge construction, six; stream improvement, eight miles; lake improvement, 60 acres; camp ground construction, 10 acres; plant disease eradication, 6,800 acres; release cutting, 15 acres; woodcutting, 200 cords; fire-line maintenance, 33 miles; development of building timbers, 8,000 L. feet; fire suppression and pre-suppression work, 3,463 man days.

Rock Alumni Will Organize Friday

Rock, Mich., April 16—Graduates of Rock high school will meet at the high school auditorium Friday evening at 7:00 for the purpose of organizing a permanent alumni association, it was announced by several alumni today who are sponsoring the organization meeting.

Several years ago, an alumni association was organized but because at that time the number of graduates from the local school was limited and a majority of them were in other towns and cities, the organization was not very active. Recent graduating classes from the local school have been the largest in the history of the school and it is felt that there are enough alumni to have an active organization.

PERSONALS

Harvey Pilon is recovering from an emergency operation for relief from appendicitis in a Green Bay hospital. Mr. Pilon, along with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Moreau, of Perkins, were visiting with Mr. Pilon's mother in Green Bay when he became ill and was rushed to the hospital. An operation revealed a ruptured appendix.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carlson, of Escanaba, spent Friday here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlson.

Word was received here this week by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bridges of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mulvey, of Chicago. Mrs. Mulvey, who was Miss Mary Bridges before her marriage, and baby are doing nicely.

Mrs. Beatrice Kitchen, Mrs. Laura Vaull and Lionell Trotter, of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Octave Boudreau and Mrs. Adelore Boudreau, of Escanaba, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph La Breshe here Sunday.

Mrs. Harvey Pilon left Wednesday for Green Bay where her husband underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carlson, Gust Manntie, Mrs. Edna Belfy, Mrs. Otto Larson, Mrs. George Weingartner, Mrs. Milton Neveau, Miss Reginia Neveau, Bill Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bailey, Misses Florence McLain and Ruth Alvar, and Henry Worch and Gilbert Larson were Escanaba callers Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Taito Kaminen spent Sunday in Negaunee where they visited with the latter's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlson visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Arntzen in Escanaba on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Taito Kaminen and Mrs. Henry Jokela, daughters Grace and Eleanor, and Miss Eleanor Carlson were Escanaba visitors Thursday.

Communication

WILL DRAW TOURISTS

I have been interested in the recent communications in the Press relative to a city band and a new shell. May I add my suggestion? Why not a summer recreational program of music? A new shell and an extensive program of summer music at Ludington Park will not only afford pleasure to the citizens of Escanaba but it will also be an asset in the new movement to draw tourists to our city.

A Business Man.

MORE LETTERS ARE RECEIVED

Smelt Recipients Show Interest in Fishing in U. P.

More letters of appreciation from recipients of smelt sent outside by the Wolverine Conservation association and other organizations as a souvenir of the Northern Michigan Smelt Run Jamboree were received yesterday.

Guy Housley, outdoor editor of the Chicago Daily News, writes that the news staff made a real feast of the smelt. Housley stated that he would come up to Escanaba the middle of June to write up the fishing possibilities of this region.

Other letters were in part as follows:

WILLARD H. SHAW, secretary of Berea (O.) Kiwanis club—We had a smelt dinner at our regular meeting of April 9. It was something entirely different from the usual fish dinners and was enjoyed by all of us. I am enclosing a clipping taken from the Cleveland News, March 29, which may be of interest to you. You Kiwanians certainly are good pickers. Congratulations to Miss Fisher.

O. M. PALMER, secretary of Napoleon (O.) Kiwanis club—We consider the smelts a rare treat for which you have our thanks. Already some of our members are discussing an outing trip to your locality and it is more than likely our club will be represented there sometime during next summer.

CARL R. HESLER, president of Moline (Ill.) Kiwanis club—Some of the local members will in all probabilities be up in your country this summer and I am sure they will visit your club.

E. J. SHALEK, secretary of West Side Kiwanis club of Chicago—I displayed your literature to the fishermen of the club, and while some of them have fished in the waters around the peninsula, others said that they would make the trip this year both for fishing and hunting.

LOUIS F. FUELBIER, member of Kiwanis club of Quincy, Ill.—I am certainly going to endeavor to visit Escanaba, Mich. Since I have received your letter, I really feel that I am acquainted with you in a personal way. I trust that it will be possible that I can bring my family up your way this summer and of course it is needless for me to state that should I have this good fortune, naturally, I will single out C. B. Smith.

GIVES HIS REASONS

Amasa.—E. M. Blomquist, superintendent of schools, whose resignation effective May 31 has caused much discussion, stated Saturday it has been his desire to leave the teaching profession the past four years.

Blomquist said he wanted to resign four years ago, but the board of education asked him to remain. He has been superintendent for seven years, the longest period of service of any man as head of the schools in Amasa.

Blomquist said that the local teacher situation did not enter into his decision to leave. He tendered his resignation for what he hopes will be greater opportunities.

BIG PARK YEAR

WITH 1934 a banner year in national park travel, plans are being made to welcome even greater numbers in 1935, Arno B. Cammerer, director of the National Park Service, writes in the New York Times.

Mr. Cammerer explained that Americans are on the move to the national parks, for these areas have become a necessity in our economic life to counteract the effects of increased urbanization of our population and to meet the problem of shorter working hours with their resultant leisure. He added that the Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee, which is within easy traveling distance of 60 millions people, was the most visited unit last year.

Mention is also made by Mr. Camerer that the Isle Royale park project, when consummated, along with other proposed park areas will serve to complete the national system from the standpoint of scenic areas of great popular appeal. Isle Royale, he said, is interesting both from the standpoints of natural exhibits and location.

The Upper Peninsula has not yet fully realized, it seems, the tremendous possibilities for increasing its tourist business through the completion of the Isle Royale national park project. Thus far, our efforts in this direction have been merely half-hearted.

The Grand Rapids Press, in a recent editorial, again sounds a call for action on the Isle Royale park project. The editorial reads as follows:

"Now that the governor is ready to sign the bill appropriating $100,000 to advertise Michigan as a tourist and resort state, he should not let the most obvious lure to visitors longer go undeveloped—Isle Royale. The submission to congress of two bills by Secretary of the Interior Ickes to have a national park established in Kings canyon, California, and in the Olympic peninsula, Washington, ought to remind Governor Fitzgerald that he has not appointed the Isle Royale national park commission.

"A few years ago congress authorized its acceptance of Isle Royale for a national park as soon as Michigan should cede it to the federal government. Governor Brucker appointed a commission to study the island and recommend to the legislature means of purchasing it from the various private owners. Before a definite plan could be drawn up, the commission expired with the election of Governor Comstock. He did not consider the project, and thus far in his term Governor Fitzgerald has neglected to take action.

"The scenery of Isle Royale has been called unsurpassed in the middle west, and it has been estimated that as a national park the island would attract more than three hundred thousand visitors annually. What that would mean commercially to Michigan is easy to imagine. Changes in lumber and mining activities have turned the attention of the upper peninsula to development of its tourist trade as possibly a chief industry, especially in view of the boom Florida has been enjoying this season. While much work has been undertaken in improving parks, roads and fishing and hunting facilities, Isle Royale remains as the focal point of the whole program. The good fortune of northern Michigan is that properly developed and advertised the region as a whole can become famous both as a winter and summer resort."

DR. TUGWELL SUGGESTS A 'THIRD ECONOMY'

NEW ways of looking at the unemployment problem are rare. Rexford Tugwell seems to have provided one the other day in his speech at Rochester, N. Y., when he suggested that the unemployed constitute in themselves a great national resource which the country might as well start using.

Mr. Tugwell's point is simple. In addition to depression unemployment—men displaced from their jobs by improvement in productive technique rather than by hard times.

Even when prosperity returns, a large number of these men won't be able to go back to work. They'll be with us in good times as well as bad—skilled and industrious workmen who want nothing under the sun except a chance to work.

It is Mr. Tugwell's idea that these men be used in what he terms a "third economy"—a system half way between Socialism and individualism. The government would put them to work on projects which would not be done by private enterprise, and which would be of benefit to the country as a whole.

Such projects would include the Civilian Conservation Corps, a gigantic slum-clearance program, checking of soil erosion, provision of sanitary and recreational facilities that are now lacking, development of reclamation works, and possibly some large-scale scheme for resettlement of the under-privileged.

All this is worth thinking about, because it reverses our ordinary attitude toward unemployment. We look on it as a sad and expensive responsibility; this plan would have us see it as a great opportunity.

This country is enormous, and it is more richly blessed by nature than any similar place on earth. It can be turned into a veritable garden spot, where human life can be richer and freer than anything we have yet dreamed of. The possibilities are here; all we need do is exploit them.

And that is just another way of saying that there is work enough in America to keep us all busy for generations to come. All we need do is go after it.

Until every American family occupies a modern, up-to-date home, until every region is served by broad, smooth highways, until every river has been harnessed and controlled and every farming region has been freed from threat of flood and wind, until our marvelous productive plant has given an abundance of necessities to every citizen—until that day comes, it is silly for us to say that there is no work for the jobless.

Mr. Tugwell's idea calls our attention to this fact. The work is waiting to be done, and we have millions of men who ask nothing but the chance to do it. Seen in this way, unemployment is a challenge and an opportunity.

IS ROAD CONSCIOUS

WHATEVER the reason, it is a fact that in the last two years residents of the upper peninsula have become quite thoroughly road conscious. Perhaps the depression has brought them more definitely to understand that development of the tourist and resort business is essential to their continued welfare and that not until the upper peninsula has paved trunk line highways will such development be possible on a broad scale.

It appears also that upper peninsula residents finally have come to understand that the only logical and effective highway improvement program is on which is peninsula-wide in its scope. Until the last year or two the popular practice in this part of the state was for individual cities and counties to bring pressure in Lansing, pull political strings and do anything an deverything necessary to get a piece of road paved here or there, for the particular benefit of one community. It has been learned, however, the spending money on secondary routes or for paying trunk lines near certain cities, leaving long interurban stretches of poor gravel or dirt roads, helped nobody as far as increasing summer tourist travel to the peninsula was concerned. That it was a most expensive lesson is now fully recognized. If, some years ago, counties and cities of the U. P. had put their heads together and agreed upon a coordinated program of trunk line development, an adequate and properly located system of concrete highways probably would be well along toward completion by this time.

But the mistakes that have been made are water over the dam. Nothing can be gained by harping on the fact that many thousands of dollars have been unwisely spent on U. P. roads. We must forget that and see to it that hereafter every dollar earmarked for road construction north of the Straits goes into an all-upper peninsula program. The upper peninsula must have at least two paved trunk lines, one north and south and one east and west, connecting its principal cities. It must direct all of its efforts to that end before requests are made for improvement of secondary roads. When the two major trunk routes are paved the most important work in building up the tourist and resort industry will have been accomplished.

CHAPTER XXIX

Millicent remained rooted to the stairs, staring with wide, incredulous eyes. It was Norman who raced down the stairs, picked up Mrs. Happ, holding his hands beneath her arm-pits.

"What is it, Cynthia?" he asked.

Twice she started to speak, and twice words failed to come from her lips.

"What is it?" Norman demanded again, alarm in his voice.

"Your father," she said.

"What about him?"

"They telephoned."

"Who telephoned?"

"The men who had him."

"What do you mean?" he asked.

Millicent suddenly came to life She sensed something of the significance of the words, ran down three or four stairs. "You mean he's been arrested?" she asked.

Mrs. Happ shook her head and said, "He's been kidnaped."

"What?" Norman Happ exclaimed.

"Kidnaped."

"How do you know?"

"They said so over the telephone."

"Who said so?"

"The men who had him."

"What did they say?"

"They said they had him, that he was safe for the present, that there was no use trying to look for him, and that under no circumstances were we to notify the police—that if we notified the police he would be killed."

"But what did they want?" Norman Happ asked. "Was it money?"

"They didn't say. They said they would communicate with me later, and that when they got in touch with me they'd give instructions as to what they wanted They said I was to keep Mr. Happ's disappearance completely concealed from the officers in the house."

"They knew the officers were in the house?" Norman Happ asked.

"Apparently."

Millicent was frowning, doing some very rapid thinking.

"He left his study," she said, "and gave Mr. Buchanan the key Mr. Buchanan had some evidence he wanted to . . ."

Cynthia Happ suddenly galvanized into life. She leveled an accusing forefinger at Millicent.

"You!" she screamed. "You're the little hussy that brought this all about! If it hadn't been for you this would never have happened! He brought you into the house and look what's happened My husband is knidnaped. His chauffeur has been killed. We're all involved in scandal. There are police officers trooping about the house, asking questions and prying into things that are none of their business. And who's to blame for it—who's responsible?"

Cynthia Happ's voice rose to a crescendo of hysterical accusation and her rigid forefinger fairly quivered as she pointed at Millicent.

"You are!!! "

Norman Happ said, "Now listen, Cynthia, calm yourself. This isn't going to do anyone any good.

The woman pushed him to one side. "You're responsible," she screamed at Millicent. "Don't stand there with that mealy-mouthed look on your face. You can't bluff me with any of that kind of stuff. You're responsible for Harry Felding's murder It's because of you my husband's been kidnaped! You . . ."

Sergeant Mahoney's voice, from the head of the staircase, sounded as professionally cheerful as the voice of a doctor entering a sick room where the patient is lying on his death bed. "Well, well well," he said. "So there seems to have been a kidnaping. Tell me about it, Mrs. Happ."

At once Cynthia Happ regained control of herself. She took a deep breath, stared at the head of the stairs with resentment glittering in her eyes.

Sergeant Mahoney moved from the head of the stairs, walking around the corner of the banister so that he was plainly visible.

Mrs. Happ's face wreathed itself in smiles. "It happens," she said, "that you overheard me telling this young minx exactly what I thought of her. I'm afraid I wasn't mincing words."

"Indeed you weren't," Sergeant Mahoney said, coming down the stairs, "but you said something about your husband being kidnaped."

Cynthia Happ laughed. "I'm afraid that I was very much worked up," she said. "I'm certainly thankful to you for the interruption, Sergeant. Regardless of the provocation I may have had, I certainly had no license to talk to a servant as though she were an equal. After all, the child is nothing but a hireling—one who does my husband's work, one who is in my house because it is necessary to have her here—just as one would have a painter, a scrubwoman, or a window washer."

Millicent realized Mrs. Happ was trying to make her lose her temper, to create a scene in the hope that such a scene would distract the attention of Sergeant Mahoney from what Mrs. Happ herself said. Millicent refused to make a scene. She surveyed the older woman with a frosty smile and kept perfectly silent.

For a moment Sergeant Mahoney looked puzzled. Then he said "But what about the kidnaping Mrs. Happ?"

Mrs. Happ's smile was the smile of a perfect hostess welcoming guests. "I'm sure," she cooed in her most seductive tones, "that I know nothing whatever about any kidnaping."

"Under those circumstances," Sergeant Mahoney suggested "suppose we have a little talk together. I want to use the telephone for a few moments, and then I would like to talk with you."

"It happens," Mrs. Happ told him, "I have other plans."

"Surely they're not so important that they can't wait for a few moments."

"I'm afraid they are."

His face became stern. He said "I'm afraid I'm going to have to insist, Mrs. Happ."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Just what I said."

"How strongly would you insist?"

"As strongly," he told her grimly, "as it became necessary for me to insist, in order to carry my point."

She had played too much bridge

MISFORTUNE

We think misfortune is ill-fate,
And every loss a loss complete,
And yet I wonder if the great
May not, perhaps, have known defeat,
And learned some wisdom that may be
The secret of their victory?

We learn new ways by losing, not
By always winning, learning more
Perhaps by losing—truths forgot,
Or new thoughts never thought before.
Yes, man, perhaps, less progress makes
By his success than mistakes.

Think not misfortune that alone,
And every loss a loss entire.
By knowing error, truth is known,
The knowledge comes that men require;
And they who lose a little dross
Perhaps avoid a greater loss.

Fate's not a thing to make us bow,
But more to fashion to our will.
Whatever fate may fret us now
May do us more of good than ill.
If we shall learn in these hard days
Thrift, industry, and wiser ways.

LARGE HOUSES IN APARTMENTS

Planning Urged to Get Best Results With Modernization

The most effective and successful modernization projects are the result of careful planning and attention to detail. In almost any community there are many large old homes, conveniently located but too big and lacking in conveniences to be rented easily. Even when rented, they frequently bring little more return than an amount sufficient to pay taxes and upkeep. Often such structures lend themselves admirably to conversion into apartments.

The second story of a medium sized house can be made into an attractive apartment with little more alterations besides a kitchen with proper fixtures and flooring. Except for possible stairway additions, the wall arrangement will require little change. With equal ease, the first floor can also be made into an apartment.

Unfinished attics, valuable space that is wasted in hundreds of houses, require more attention. With insulation, plumbing, wiring, kitchen and bathroom fixtures, partitions and interior finish that portion of the house can also be made livable and also a source of revenue.

Usually there is adequate space in a basement, if it is above grade for a small apartment in the portion not occupied by the furnace. In many instances it is possible to construct a bath, living room, bedroom and kitchenette in basements, but under any circumstances there is generally ample room for the creation of a recreation room.

Public Works Jobs Opening; Veterans Urged To Register

Suggestions for veterans who are seeking employment are contained in a bulletin received by N. P. Thompson, veterans' placement representative at Escanaba. The communication urges veterans to keep their registrations up to date, and instructions in the bulletin also apply to all other men seeking mployment through the olcal employment service office in the city hall.

The bulletin says:

1. Veterans are again urged: 1. To register for employment at the office of the employment service having jurisdiction over the community in which they live. 2. To notify the office immediately of change of address or telephone number. 3. To notify the office if they get employment, and 4. To again notify the office when that employment ends. 5 To contact the employment office immediately upon receiving any notice from it. Many reasons can be given as to why the above should be followed, but I shall give only one reason for each: 1. The employment service cannot help you unless you have a registration card in the active file. 2. On Saturday a man was notified to contact the employment office. He should have had the notice Monday morning. Two weeks before he had moved and had not notified the service of his change of address; his notice first went to the old address. He received the notice Tuesday morning and called at the office Tuesday afternoon. The job had been filled. 3. Time in serving employers is lost if you are sent for and then are found to be working. The service must then start all over again. 4. To insure consideration for future employment. 5. A veteran we know was notified to contact the employment office. Three days later he came in. The job was gone.

2. With the weather opening up many public works projects, for which contracts have been awarded, will be started. With the passage of legislation now before congress millions of dollars will be spent in Michigan. This means work. Any veteran who wants his share of this work must do his part to get it. He must be registered, and in the active file.

U. S. FOREST CORPS LISTED

Officials in Hiawatha and Marquette Units Announced

The personnel of the U. S. Forest Service staff for the Hiawatha and Marquette national forests, headquarters for which are located in Escanaba, is announced in a recent pamphlet issued by the Forest Service, entitled "The Development of the Marquette and Hiawatha National Forests of Michigan."

R. B. McKennan is supervisor of the forests; F. R. Crow, assistant supervisor; and A. A. Janson, executive assistant.

A nursery is maintained at Manistique with a total annual capacity of 51,000,000 trees. R. O. Sowash is the superintendent.

There are four ranger districts with a total area of 1,173,000 acres. The rangers in charge are: Munising, A. O. Schaefer; Manistique, Edward DeGraaf; Raco, H. Beadle; and Moran, R. Alskog.

The ECW or CCC camps in the two national forests are:

Wyman, E. C. Hendricksen, superintendent; Kentucky, C. B. Goetzen; McComb Lake, Herbert Miotke; Steuben, Paul Wild; Cooks, Leland Stratton; Polack Lake, O. E. Livermore; Moran, Milton Strong; Kenneth, C. M. Armstrong; Pine River, A. J. Quinkert; Pine River, Karl Von Voightlander; Marquette Indian ECW camp, Harold Bergman, Raco.

LOCAL AVIATION GROUPS FORMED

Emmett Meehan Named Chairman of County Committee

Senator Wm. G. McAdoo, president of the National Aeronautic association, with headquarters in Washington, has appointed Emmet Meehan chairman of the Delta county committee of the association.

In making the appointment Senator McAdoo states that a militant and aggressive program of public information and education will be inaugurated at once, the purpose of which is to insure that America will lead in the air.

The committee headed by Mr. Meehan will have an important part in carrying out this program. Associated with him in developing a local organization are Walter Arntzen, Clyde Cole and Harold Gessner, local fliers.

"We hope to assist materially in quickening interest in aviation," the local chairman states.

"Acting for and with the National Aeronautic association, we will endeavor to coordinate local educational efforts and to cooperate with all individuals and organizations who have an interest in this modern means of travel. At the same time we will serve as a clearing house for the association and do our utmost to carry forward our part in this national movement.

"There is much to be done. Air records must be won and retained by America. Unfortunately, this country is now a poor second in the records which it holds. According to some authorities, this country ranks only third or fourth in military air equipment. With hundreds of millions of dollars invested in commercial aviation, not more than two hundred thousand different individuals avail themselves annually of the facilities for travel in the air."

Mr. Meehan will proceed at once to complete his organization.

Del Drake Dies, Claimed He Was Sir Francis' Kin

Munising, April 16 (Special)—Del Drake, 71, well known character of Munising, who claimed to be a direct descendant of Sir Francis Drake, died at his residence in the Island View addition yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. He had ben ill only three days.

When Drake's condition became critical yesterday, his partner, John Monk, left to call Dr. Haldor Barnes, but before he returned with the doctor, Drake had passed away.

Drake recently claimed to have in his possession a pair of ornate buckles worn by Sir Francis when that swash buckling explorer and pirate tramped the deck of his flagship in his trip to the Pacific ocean, 1577 to 1580.

Drake made a fortune aggregating $60,000 in Alaska but was virtually penniless at the time of his death.

He is survived by a son, Earl, in Munising, and a sister living in lower Michigan.

ALGER SEEKS GOOD FISHING

Federal Hatchery Urged At Development Club Meeting Here

Munising, April 16—The Development Club at their regular meeting at the Beach Inn Monday evening spent much of their time in discussing the piscatorial possibilities for Alger county in the near future.

Charles H. Anderson, supervisor elect for Munising, spoke before the club on three main subjects relating to fishing. He advocated a federal hatchery in Alger county, stocking of Munising Bay with perch pike, by the conservation department, and the expulsion of tramp fishing boats from Munising Bay waters.

A federal hatchery in Alger county would eliminate the necessity of local fishermen in sending eggs to the hatchery at Duluth to be hatched, hauling the fingerlings over long distances, and would give local fishermen and sportsmen an ample supply of fingerlings with which to replenish lakes and streams. An ideal spot for the hatchery would be in the Anna River, which has been declared one of the best places for a hatchery in the upper peninsula. Mr. Anderson reported that they expect to receive soon from the hatchery in Duluth approximately 20 cans of fingerlings for the purpose of restocking Munising Bay. They could have more, he said, but the cost of shipping a large number from Duluth is prohibitive.

In discussing the stocking of the bay with perch pike Mr. Anderson stated that this would be an excellent conservation measure and would be a great incentive in attracting tourists to Munising. Many tourists who have fished in the bay has gone away disappointed. Stocking this bay with game fish would eliminate that and cause tourists to go home and discuss the excellent fishing in this territory, resulting eventually, in more tourist business for this locality.

The advisability of prohibiting tramp fishermen from fishing in Munising waters took up a greater part of the discussion. It was charged that these fisherman wandered from one port to another whenever the fishing happened to be best and consequently paid little or no local taxes, although they sometimes took the cream of the fishing reserve in that locality. These fishermen usually have their supplies shipped in and buy few groceries from local dealers. The club took no action on this question pending further investigation.

A communication was read concerning a proposed airline running from Chicago, Milwaukee, on up to Escanaba, Marquette, Munising and to Sault Ste. Marie. The airline is to be known as the Community Air Line and is to be corporated, each city to have one member, as the result of an investment of $5000. Two types of planes are to be used, one for summer flying equipped with pontoons for landing on water and one for winter flying equipped with skiis. The planes will carry passengers, and freight and earnings of the line will be divided among the cities sponsoring it. Action on this matter was referred to the city council at their regular meeting at 4:30 today.

LYCEUM COURSE

Plans have been definitely set to hold the lyceum course for the Mather high school next year. All pupils have taken part in making this possible. Each pupil submitted a small amount toward the course and therefore will be able to see each number at a very nominal cost.

In September arrangements will be made to make it possible for adults to hear the programs. No season tickets will be sold next year.

PLAN HOP MAY 10

A definite date, May 10, was set for the annual Thalia Hop and plans are now in progress to make the event very successful. The members of the committees are as follows: Pearl St. Amour, Theda Hoy, Helen True, Dorothea Shaffstall, Dorothy Dauzy, Dorothy Colburn, Joan Barrett, Jean Tervo, Lois Esaacson, Ruth Knowles and Marianna Boucha.

Present members of the Thalia club and members of the classes of 1933 and 1934 are invited to attend.

MUNISING BRIEFS

FIRE TRAINING SCHOOL HELD

Ways of Prevention in Hiawatha Forest Are Discussed

Munising, April 17—A fire training school was held at Camp Kentucky on Saturday, April 13. All of the foremen, camp superintendents, specialists and staff from the Ranger's office attended.

The purpose of the meeting, led by Ranger Schafer, was to bring to the attention of all the foremen the seriousness of fire on the Hiawatha.

The main factor to consider in our fire situation as stressed by Mr. Schafter was prevention. If the visiting public, as well as those men who are working on the forecasts do all in their power to prevent fires, there will be very few fires to extinguish. Extreme efforts are being made to contact the public and special rules are made to be followed by the men working on the forests. In a short time it is expected that many fire prevention and warning signals will be placed along the main trunk highways, and the many truck trails which have been built.

All means of communication and transportation will be maintained to a high standard as fire is the most dangerous enemy of the forest and also the game and the fish who live within the forest. An extensive program of maintenance is now being made along the telephone line system.

CCC Will Help

The organization of the forest service staff was stressed. A central forest service dispatcher and lookout is to be placed in the Wetmore, as this tower has a visibility which practically covers 90 per cent of the Munising district. To augment this, CCC enrollees who are now undergoing a very intensive training period at the various camps will be placed at Midway and Tie hill towers as well as the proposed towers at Boot lake, Ridge and Johnson lake.

All fires spotted will be dispatched to the nearest camp by the Wetmore towerman. From camp, an initial action crew will be ready and be on that fire within a half hour after it is spotted. Follow up crews will be available on extra short notice as a plan has been made whereby they will be equipped with fire tools as well as portable telephones for standby action. This system was very effective last year when the Hiawatha had but 45 acres of land burned.

Attention was then placed on the various methods by which fire is fought. This was done in the field. Trenches were dug and special emphasis was placed on the importance of attack. The conditions which placed crews at one point or another as well as the need for tractor and plow units and the mechanical power pump were discussed. The need for keeping all fire fighting equipment sharp and ready for action was explained.

Following this the men were placed in fire fighting units and and initial action and follow up crew went to a mock fire in a jack pine slash area. Further discussion took place here on how a fire under such hazardous conditions should be disbanded, the men going to their respective stations. Further matters pertaining to the fire situation will be stressed from time to time for the benefit of the public, and it is hoped that the people on the Hiawatha and the public residing nearby will cooperate in every respect to combat the fire situation which must be met each year.

ALLEGED CHECK FORGER SOUGHT

Police at Escanaba Have Complaints Against Sidney Smith

Efforts to check up on the whereabouts of Sidney Smith, who is wanted for questioning in connection with at least two check forgeries at Escanaba, spread to all sections of the state Tuesday.

An appeal for the arrest of Smith was sent out over the state police radio station and special notices were received by the police at Escanaba and at Muskegon. At Grand Haven, the police department is also seeking the same man as a suspect in a series of forgeries in that city.

After the police radio call went out, information about other forgeries began coming in. The chief of police at Grand Haven said late last week several forged checks turned up in that city, one of them signed by the name "Anderson." One of the checks forged at the Sault was similarly signed.

From Escanaba came the report that several bad checks issued on the Moser Fur company of St. Louis, made payable to Frank Beck and Frank Anderson, had been circulated in Escanaba.

At Goetzville, it was reported a man answering the description of Smith, cashed a $10.20 check at the Henry Ponthriand Gasoline station the same day that Smith purchased a car from J. L. Lipsett and Son garage in Sault Ste. Marie. He was driving the car when he cashed the check, made out to Carl Shanon and the name of J. E. Shopp of DeTour.

Earlier in the week a man answering Smith's description, cashed a $42 check at the Man store in the Sault. The check was made out to Carol Anderson and was signed "J. E. Shopp."

It was reported at DeTour that Smith and his family left DeTour last week. It was said he declared he was going to Muskegon to work on the salvaging of the Steamer Cort.

ONE MAN SEIZURE of FIUME

FIUME, across the Adriatic from Italy, has Gabriele D'Annunzio, Italian poet and dramatist, to thank for its independence. The allies had seized the city from Hungary during the World War and, while Italy and Yugo-Slavia wrangled over its possession, D'Annunzio led a force into Fiume and took control.

The Treaty of Rapallo made Fiume independent, but D'Annunzio defied the powers for more than a year, even declaring war on his own country. But Italians bombarded the city and D'Annunzio fled.

One of the stamps of Fiume that depict this incident is shown here, an Italian sailor raising the Italian flag over the city.

In the Line of Duty

ON A December evening, in a telephone exchange in Northern Michigan, an operator sat at the switchboard. Calls were few. It was the low ebb of the day's work. There was nothing to suggest that soon this quiet office was to be the scene of danger—and resolute devotion to duty.

It began with that dread forerunner of disaster—the smell of smoke. Then, from an adjoining building, came the crackling of flames. Personal safety now obviously lay in abandoning the switchboard. And under the circumstances no one could be justly censured for putting self-preservation first.

The operator stuck to her post.

And the alarm, spreading rapidly through the town, reached three other operators who were off duty at the time. Immediately—volunteers in the face of danger—they hurried to the exchange.

While engines clanged, while firemen fought flames close by, while an adjacent wall collapsed in the heat of the town's most costly and disastrous fire in ten years, these four operators remained steadfastly at the switchboard to handle all the great rush of calls that must attend and combat any public emergency.

This example of calm courage, taken from recent records, does not stand alone. Again and again, in crises large and small, Michigan Bell Telephone employees have proved their high sense of loyalty to public service. Courteous and efficient in the routine work which day by day maintains the high standards of telephone service, they have repeatedly faced emergencies with genuine courage and an unselfish devotion to duty.

It is because of this spirit of service, no less than because of great engineering achievements, that Michigan today enjoys a telephone service unsurpassed in any quarter of the globe.

Chest Surgery Effective Curb of Tuberculosis

Phthisis — consumption — tuberculosis. Whatever name may have been tacked to this "wasting away" disease, it's been the same scourge of mankind throughout the ages. The history of tuberculosis is the history of civilization; and the progress of medical science is the decline of the tuberculosis death date.

Back in phthisis days, imagination seems to have been the chief ingredient of each tuberculosis prescription. Under the Roman empire, raw snails vied with thousand-legged worms in popularity, while wine an honey, the ashes from the foot of an ox, the blood of a weasel and crickets made up a partial list of the Greek remedies for the "wasting away".

Even in American days, there have been tuberculosis cures of a similar scientific truth. During the Revolution, heavy exercise, frequent and heavy meals were thought to cure the desease. Mud baths, lime water, sulphur and sassafras lured the tuberculosis at the beginning of the 19th century. In Civil War times, certain types of dress were thought to prevent the disease, and the feet, along with haircuts and frequent shaving, were often blamed for bringing on tuberculosis.

Just as weird ideas still exist, some of them wrapped up in bottles and sold as guaranteed cures for tuberculosis. But most of us know that the three wonders of arresting tuberculosis are the three simplest rules of health: rest, fresh air, and good food. And the greatest of these verily, is rest. Bed rest, flat rest, complete relaxed rest every minute of the day and night so that the tuberculosis tears in the lungs may be healed over with scar tissue.

Modern Development

The past few years have seen the development of a fourth wonder in treating tuberculosis; chest surgery. Actually, it's just a supplement of the great god of rest for chest operations are designed to put the lung the most completely at ease in the shortest possible time. So accepted and proven have these lung operations become, that about 70 per cent of the patients at our state sanatorium benefit by chest surgery in some form or the other.

The simplest and the most common form of chest surgery is the operation done on the phrenic nerve. When the doctors at a sanatorium hold their monthly conferences about what should be done for their tuberculosis patients, they prefer this operation to all others.

The phrenic nerve is one controlling the action of the diaphragm—the cause of the up down movement in your chest. The nerve comes close to the skin near the collar bone, so only a local anesthetic is needed. But just as elaborate antiseptic measures are needed for this simple operation as for babies and appendixes. Huge lathers of foamy soap the doctors rub up and down their arms after donning sterile white pants and wrong side front jackets. The nurses pour 95 per cent alcohol over the doctors hands and arms, killing the last germ that survives the soap and water ordeal. Quick drying with a sterile towel, a fluttering of talcum, and jab into the sterility of rubber gloves. With gauze bandages tied over their mouths and noses, every rule of sterility is observed.

The patient is wrapped so thoroughly that only a bit of brown flesh near the colar bone exposed through a slit in the long cloth reveals that there is a person on the operating table.

The six white lights over the table and a spotlight are snapped on. A tiny scratch on the skin near the collar bone made before the patient lies down shows the proper place for the incision; now they shoot a bit of novocain into the flesh. Sometimes another pinprick injection of novocain is needed a bit later, but that's all the pain there is with this operation, and no after effects from either. With instruments on the right, one doctor to do the actual operation, the other to hold back the flesh and assist and nurses handy with towels, tools and such.

Reacting Nerve

A small inch-long cut into the flesh, another jab to cut away the under flesh, and the nerve section is exposed. The nerve looks like a nice white piece of string, not at all important looking. Sometimes there is an accessory nerve lying alongside to the large phrenic nerve. A small peice of the accessory, about a quarter of an inch, has to be cut off. A pair of plyers gently pinches the phrenic nerve—just a little, just enough to impair its action for a few months.

A few stitches with a hooked needle to sew the under flesh together, a piece of adhesive plaster over the whole and it's all done.

Fifteen minutes to do this nerve crushing. Fifteen minutes to double the chances of winning against tuberculosis. A short fifteen minutes today, but fifteen minutes that represent all of science's advance against this disease since the time of King Tut.

Modern chest surgery is a long step from the boiled weasel and fox's tails of not so very long ago. It's indicative of the general progress that has been made against this disease so baffling to mankind.

Tre Ore Good Friday at St. Anne's Church

The Tre Ore, or commemoration of the Three Hours Agony, will be held in St. Anne's church on Good Friday, beginning promptly at 12 o'clock noon, and continuing until 3 o'clock.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Raymond G. Jacques will deliver the opening discourse and those on the Seven Last Words, eight sermons in all.

The two choirs, under the direction of Miss Janet Moreau and the Sisters of St. Anne's school who have been practicing in preparation for the service for the past several weeks, will sing the program of hymns to accompany these discourses.

The program will be most solemn and inspiring, one which cannot but bring those who hear it to a realization of what the Passion and Death of Jesus Christ means to all.

St. Anne's church is in the possession of a relic of the True Cross which will be exposed during the Tre Ore, and a blessing with this relic will follow the service.

All are urged to attend, and, if possible, to remain for the entire service.

The following order of the service will be observed:

Anthem—Choir.
Prayers.
Opening discourse.
Hymn, By the Blood that Flowed from Thee—Choir.
Prayers.
Hymn, O Come and Mourn With Me Awhile—Choir.

The STORY of EASTER

After the Last Supper, Jesus and His disciples went to the Garden of Gethsemane, near the Mount of Olives. Entering, He bade His disciples wait, taking Peter, James, and John with Him. A little distance away, He asked the three to stay and watch, while He went aside to pray. Three times He prayed agonizedly, beseeching the Father "if it is possible, let this chalice pass from Me; nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt." Each time He returned to Peter, James and John, to find them asleep. Awakening them, finally, He said: "Arise, let us go; he that shall betray Me is at hand." A multitude came into the garden. At their head walked Judas Iscariot, who came to Jesus, said, "Hail, Rabbi," and kissed Him. Jesus asked the throng whom they sought. "Jesus of Nazareth," they replied. "I am Me," was the simple answer. The people, overcome with fear, fell to the ground, but the soldiers advanced and seized Him. Peter tried to defend Jesus, but our Lord bade him desist.

McFarland Family Reunion Held at Green Bay

A family reunion of unusual interest, held Sunday in Green Bay, was that of members of the McFarland family, former residents of Lathrop and of Escanaba and widely known here.

Attending the festivities of the day which were held at the Marcus McFarland home, were Mrs. Thomas Webb Preston, of Glendale, Calif., the former Effie McFarland; Mrs. Howard Johnson, of LaMesa, Calif., who was Esther McFarland; James McFarland, of Pekin, Ill., and Mrs. McFarland; Mrs. Neil Loop, of Channing; Mrs. Huene Thomas, of Chicago; and Mrs. G. R. Stegath of this city, a cousin in the family group.

Mrs. Preston, whose visit here was her first in twenty-two years, and Mrs. Johnson motored to Green Bay in company with Mrs. Stegath, whose guests they have been for the past several days, and following their return from Green Bay, they motored to Lathrop where a second gathering, attended by distant relatives of the family, was held at the home of Mrs. O. L. Molloy, on Monday.

Mrs. Preston and Mrs. Johnson left Tuesday morning, Mrs. Johnson returning to the west, while Mrs. Preston continued on to Boston, Mass., to visit relatves and to witness the hanging of the portrait of her late husband's grandfather, Thomas Smith Webb, in the rooms of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar in that city. Mr. Webb was the founder and organizer of Templar Masonry in America during the early part of the last century.

Theatres

"Evergreen," in which Gaumont British will offer Jessie Matthews, their new star discovery, at the Delft Theatre on today and Thursday, is said to provide an innovation in screen story telling. Dramatic incidents have been coupled with mirth, music, and spectacle to produce a musical film with a genuinely intriguing plot which swept to instant popular favor when this film was presented at the world famed Radio City Music Hall. According to the management of the Delft Theatre, unusual situations are climaxed by magnificent stage scenes and stirring musical comedy numbers. Seldom can a scenario writer attain this goal, but the story of "Evergreen" is said to have presented that rare opportunity, a musical film with a book written by one of the most successful playwrights of the day, Benn W. Levy.

YOU'RE HAPPY WHEN YOU'RE FIT

Think back over the last month. The days you enjoyed most were the days you felt in great shape. Increase these sunny days by keeping fit.

Avoid common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. It may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy. It dulls your enthusiasm, takes the fun out of living.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes you with "bulk" in convenient form. ALL-BRAN also provides vitamin B and iron. This gentle natural food is much better than patent medicines. Unlike cathartics, it remains effective with continued use.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THEATRES

"Million Dollar Baby" is the amusingly different comedy-farce opening at the Rialto Theatre with Jimmy Fay, new four-year-old picture find enacting the title role.

With him are Ray Walker and Arline Judge, who portray his parents and start him out on his career as the million dollar baby.

Adapted from the story by Joseph Santley, the picture depicts the life of Terry and Grace Sweeney, whose vaudeville act is broken up when the authorities refuse to allow their son Pat to go on with them.

Second Feature

Damon Runyon, author of the successful hits, "Lady for a Day" and "Little Miss Marker," has written a new story, "The Lemon Drop Kid," which in picture form, comes today to the Rialto Theatre, with Lee Tracy and Helen Mack heading the cast.

CHET BUNKER HAS GAS WELL

Former Local Man Finds Gas While Drilling For Water

Word has been received here of the recent finding of a gas well on the property of Chester Bunker, former Manistique resident, in Endicott, N. Y. Mr. Bunker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bunker of 124 North Second street. He left Manistique nearly ten years ago but has been a frequent visitor here since locating in the east.

The following is the article taken from the Endicott Bulletin, telling of the bringing in of the gas well on the property of Chester Bunker:

"Driving a five-inch casing for a water well on property owned by Chester Bunker, 108 Fillmore avenue, on the Endicott-Campville road, three miles west of this village, a worker in the E. J. Upper Leather Tannery, workmen brought in a gas well at a depth of 60 feet, which is now producing sufficient gas of high quality to supply all the needs of two homes.

"George Thomas of 122 Wendell street, this village, an experienced well driller with 19 years of service in the Texas and Oklahoma oil and gas fields, was in charge of the well-drilling operations, when the gas was discovered.

"A match was applied to the fuel and a column of flame shot about three feet into the air.

"Explaining that the well will not produce sufficient gas for commercial purposes, Mr. Thomas said that tests he has made indicate that at its present rate of flow, fuel will be ample to supply two homes with all the natural fuel they might require for all purposes.

"The casing was sunk an additional five feet today, with the result that the supply of gas was doubled. Mr. Thomas expressed the opinion that it would show a pressure of about 25 pounds per square inch, upon being capped, and this work will be undertaken immediately.

"'This gas is shale gas,' Mr. Thomas told the Bulletin today, 'and from my experience I would say that it comes from a depth of from 1,000 to 1,400 feet which corresponds from the depth of gas wells south of Apalachin which produce at a pressure of about 400 to 500 pounds per square inch.

"'Bringing in gas at 60 feet can be explained in only one way. Our drill struck a perpendicular or nearly perpendicular fissure in the rock, that fissure leads directly down to the greater depth where the gas is found.

"'I do not believe that the gas we struck is a small pocket, for the reason that in such cases the supply blows out in two or three hours, while the supply at the Bunker well is increasing if anything. It is possible that the fissure leads to a large pocket, which is not part of the permanent supply, but I am inclined to believe otherwise from the tests I have made.'

"The gas well is located on a lot on which Mr. Bunker is now building a new home. It is about a mile west of the Endicott airport.

"Striking gas in the manner in which it was brought in on the Bunker property is considered unusual, particularly because of the fact that the perpendicular fissure in the rock probably does not extend over a great distance and it was necessary for the drill to strike almost directly on it in order to reach the gas supply."

Conservationists Have Busy Session On Monday Evening

Despite the fact that attendance was greatly reduced because of the inclement weather, considerable business was disposed of at the meeting of the Schoolcraft County Conservation club on Monday evening at the fire hall.

Changes were made in the by-laws of the club by amendments to the former rules under which the club operated. In the future the club will hold monthly meetings, the meeting day being the second Thursday in the month. Under this rule the next meeting will be on May 9. A change was also made in the law designating the number which shall constitute a quorum. The number necessary was reduced to ten members for a regular or special meeting and to 4 for meetings of the executive board.

A communication from the Central Sportsman's committee of Grand Rapids, urging the club to support the changes proposed for the private shooting preserve bill, was read. Following discussion the club instructed the secretary to wire Representative Ezra F. Aldrich and Senator John Luecke urging them to support H. B. 298 which would amend the private shooting preserve law by removing the high bag limits and the long seasons.

The report of the treasurer, John I. Bellaire shows that the club has a balance of $44.70. There are now 55 paid up members and the membership campaign will be continued.

Gordon Hughes, Rotary Speaker On Monday Noon

Gordon Hughes was the speaker at the Rotary club meeting on Monday noon. He spoke on his impressions received at Washington during last week when he attended the meeting of the code authority in the nation's capitol.

Mr. Hughes found that there seemed to be less protest against the NRA at this time than ever before. There appears, from his observations, to be a feeling that the NRA is to be extended but present indications point to the dropping of the compulsory membership feature.

Following the talk by Mr. Hughes there was a general discussion of the subject.

Miss Grace Olson, who teaches in the public schools at Sault Ste. Marie, is arriving tomorrow to spend the Easter week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Olson, 426 Walnut street.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, April 16 (AP)—A few leaders and specialties got most of the attention today while the balance of the stock list was quietly irregular.

Chemicals were again favorites among the stocks. Allied Chemical had the best gain for the day with a lift of 4 points to 140 while Air Reduction was nearly 2 points better at 116¼, and several others in the group gained fractionally.

Oils likewise found a small following, led by a 1 3-8 point advance in Standard of N. J. at 41 5-8. Reports from the mid-continent producing areas continue to emphasize the firmer tone of crude oil prices there, and small advances in gasoline rates in the east have been increasingly frequent lately.

The scattered nature of the day's buying may be indicated by the list of the more active issues which were able to gain 1 to 2 points or so. These included Eastman Kodak, Lehman Corp., Liggett & Myers "B," Neisner Bros. Owens-Illinois Glass, Penick & Ford, Standard Oil of Kansas, Superheater and several others of equally varying character.

Although the Associated Press average for 60 stocks was .1 of a point higher at 38.7, the rails and utilities used in the compilation were each .2 of a point down. The day's turnover at 742,720 shares dropped substantially below that of the previous session.

Many of the stock list's usual pacemakers made some minor progress, including Santa Fe at 39½, Sears Roebuck at 37¼, New York Central at 15 5-8, American Tobacco "B" at 81 and Woolworth at 56½. Others, however, got down minor fractions, including Chrysler at 36¼, Consolidated Gas at 21 7-8, Montgomery Ward at 25¾, and U. S. Steel at 32.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, April 16—Profit taking sales in wheat futures were swept out of the trading pit in a resumption of speculative buying just before the market's close today, resulting in a price jump of more than two cents to new highs for the season.

The wave of purchasing here accompanied rather persistent strength in the Kansas City market, which is nearer the southwestern drought region. Reports of dust storms in southwestern Kansas, parts of Nebraska and even in Canada gave a spectacular touch to a wealth of bullish crop news.

The sharp upturn, ending easiness that prevailed most of the session, forced May wheat to the highest level in more than four months and the new crop deliveries to new season tops. Wheat closed 2 to 2 3-8 cents above the previous finish, May $1.02½ to $1.02 5-8, and corn was ½ to 1 3-8 up. May 89 3-8 to 89½, oats gained ½ to 7-8, rye 3-4 to 7-8, and barley was unchanged to 1¼ higher.

Provisions closed steady, influenced mainly by grain action.

New York, April 16 (AP)—The bond market succeeded in weathering another sinking spell in rail road loans today and worked higher under encouragement of utilities and industrials. U. S. governments also showed improvement.

Transfers were again somewhat below the average, however, aggregating $9,456,000, par value compared with $9,487,000 on Monday, and the Associated Press averages were .1 to .4 of a point higher.

Particular bright utility spots were North American 5s, up 3¾ points at 97; Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, up 1 3-8 at 84 7-8, and North American Edison 5½s, up 2 at 96.

A feature of the market that caused comment in investment circles was the tendency of non-callable high priced bonds to blossom out under the most active demand observed in several days despite the fact that the redemption and refunding vogue added another recruit to its ranks when the St. Joseph Lead Co. elected to call its $8,000,000 ten-year convertible 5½ percent bonds at 105 and interest on June 18. This issue apparently had discounted such action and held unchanged at 105 7-8. Among the so-called "blue chip" loans selling higher were Liggett & Myers 5s, up 1 point at 121½; Illinois Steel debenture 4½s, up ½ at 107¾, and Santa Fe 4s, up 3-8 at 109 1-8.

Selected industrial bonds threaded their way into higher territory without any difficulty. Among the favorites were Chile Copper 5s at 91, U. S. Rubber 5s at 93 1-8, American Smelting 5s at 102¼ and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s at 93 1-8.

The new treasury 2 7-8s again were the most active in the government group and ended 2-32nds higher at 102.12.

Sale Of Michigan Farms Increasing

Land sales by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul in Michigan are steadily gaining, it is shown in a statement just made public embracing the sales for the first 2 months of the year. With 11 farms sold in January, 21 in February, 25 in March and 10 during the first 10 days in April, there have been 67 farms sold this year in this state.

"Improved industrial conditions in Michigan have undoubtedly improved the demand for farms," said President Roy A. Nelson, "for we notice a considerable number of inquiries are coming from the cities. Many of our sales have been to city people seeking safe investments.

"One thing we have noticed about our land sales this spring is that when we reject a thin offer, almost invariably the prospect raises his offer, both as to price and down payment. This was not true a year or more ago and it indicates to us that, although there is no stampede, the market is very firm. We are getting 60 per cent more inquiries than a year ago."

COOKS

Will Present Play

Cooks, Mich.—"Closed Lips," a comedy-drama in three acts by Lillian Mortimer, has been chosen as the commencement play of the class of 1935 of the Inwood Consolidated school. It is a play with a subtle moral woven in with two hours full of rich humor and pathos. The cast of ten characters is working overtime to get the play in shape for performance in the gymnasium on the evening of May 1.

Esther Galbraith's "The Brink of Silence" is being prepared by four members of the class as a preliminary to the main show. It is a short one-act play with a setting in a log cabin on a lonely island in the Antarctic.

A fine spirit of cooperation shown by every member of the class at rehearsals promises a successful presentation of the play and an evening of delightful entertainment.

The plays are being directed by Wayne Kelly.

MINE WORK RESUMED

Iron River.—Operations were resumed today at the Forbes mine with 56 men on the payroll.

The mine, now operated by the North Range Mining company which succeeded the Jones and Laughlin company as lessors, was closed down April 30, 1933.

Although local officials would not discuss the matter, the North Range company has a market for the ore, which is to be used in the manufacture of products of the Ford Motor company. The North Range also operates the Ford Blueberry mine near Ishpeming.

not to know when the cards were stacked against her, and she was too practised a hostess not to know how to carry off the situation.

"Oh, under those circumstances," she said, "if it's so important I will be glad to alter my plans. Where did you wish to go for our little chat?"

"First," he told her, "the telephone."

Both Millicent and Norman Happ remained on the stairs, their ears strained, listening.

Abruptly, from the lower floor Sergeant Mahoney's voice drifted up to them.

"But, madam," he said, "this telephone has been knocked from the stand. I heard it ringing a short time ago and I'm quite certain I heard your voice answering it."

"It was," she told him, "a wrong number. I'm afraid I must have knocked the stand over when I turned away."

"But the stand hasn't been knocked over," Sergeant Mahoney said insistently. "It's the telephone that was knocked or thrown to the floor. How do you explain that? And I heard you scream. How about that?"

"Really, Sergeant, there are some things one just can't explain—matters of carelessness, perhaps . . ."

Her voice trailed off into silence and Norman Happ, taking Millicent's arm, turned her gently about on the stairs, started ascending them.

"They'll just talk around in circles," he said. "Cynthia won't tell him anything, but you and I have got to have a talk."

She found herself welcoming the touch of his palm under her elbow.

"He'll know that she's lying."

"That won't make any difference." Norman Happ said grimly. "He won't get any information out of her, but we've got to do something."

"What do you mean?" she asked.

They were in the corridor now. Norman Happ looked about him then lowered his voice.

"She's a wonderful actress," he said. "She's got plenty of poise. Sergeant Mahoney will never get her story."

"Don't you believe it," Millicent retorted. "Sergeant Mahoney will read her thoughts. He's playing with her as a cat plays with a mouse."

"Perhaps you're right," Norman Happ agreed, "but the time has come for you to put all of your cards on the table. We've got to play this thing together. Have you enough confidence in me to tell me everything?"

Millicent suddenly found herself staring into his eyes. He had grasped her shoulders, whirled her about so that she was facing him. His arms were around her.

"Millicent," he said, "can you will you tell me everything?"

Babe Ruth Hero as Braves Beat Giants, 4 to 2

SOCKS HOMER IN 5TH FRAME

Personally Accounts for All His Teams Runs, Stars in Field

BY BILL KING
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston, Mass., April 16 (AP)—With all the characteristic flamboyance of the great man in a crisis, George Herman (Babe) Ruth, the ancient they waived out of the American league, started life all over again at 40 in the National league today.

Ruth

He personally touched off the season for his new mates, the Braves, by slugging one of his ancient enemies, left handed Carl Hubbell, for a tremendous home run in the fifth inning of the season's opener with the New York Giants, driving in or scoring all four of his team's runs, making one circus catch, and exhilarating 25,000 fans.

The Braves beat the Giants 4 to 2 as far as the ball game as a whole was concerned, but beyond that everything was Ruth.

Leading the enemy was the screwball southpaw, Hubbell, the man who fanned Ruth ingloriously in the 1934 All-Star game in New York.

In the first inning, with Shortstop Bill Urbanski on base, Ruth drove in the first Braves' run with a single that almost flattened Bill Terry on the first base lines. Then he scored the second run himself as singles by Wally Berger, Pinky Whitney, and Baxter Jordan followed.

Makes Circus Catch

Then, after fanning with equal might in the second inning, he smote the blow that clinched things for the day. With Urbanski again on base, the count two and two, the Babe unwound himself at Hubbell's waist-high fast ball on the outside and sailed it far over the right field wall for his first National league home run, the 724th of his career.

The Babe then wound up his performance with an astounding catch of a nasty drive the pitcher slammed over third base. His knees pumping up under his chin, his fat form wobbling, Ruth thundered down the foul line and just did get there in time to rob Hubbell of a hit with a last second stab.

Lefty Ed Brandt, Braves southpaw held the Giants to five hits.

Hubbell was hit safely nine times, five hits coming in the first inning. He was relieved at the start of the seventh by Al Smith, another southpaw, who wound up Ruth's typical day by fanning the great man in the seventh inning. Ruppert Thompson, a rookie, replaced Ruth in left field in the eighth.

Pittsburgh Crushes Cincinnati, 12 to 6

Cincinnati, April 16 (AP)—Routing two pitchers in the seventh, Pittsburgh's Pirates crushed the Cincinnati Reds 12 to 6 in the season's opening game today. In all, 27,400 fans shivered in the stands on the coldest April 16 here since 1875.

Cincinnati's chances had seemed rosy until the seventh inning. Down three runs after the second inning, they climbed to even terms in the fifth with the aid of Sam Byrd's home run. Then Tony Freitas lost control completely. He gave three straight singles, was replaced by Frey who yielded three more, and Frey in turn was replaced by Rookie Gene Schott before the rampage was halted.

Hopelessly behind, the Reds nevertheless counted two runs as Lombardi and Kampouris doubled and Keyers singled for the third time in the ninth before Hoyt bore down once more.

Pittsburgh 040 000 701—12 14 0
Cincinnati 010 030 002— 6 13 3

Hoyt and Padden; Freitas, Frey, Schott, Hollingsworth and Lombardi.

AND DID HER NEIGHBORS SAY PLENTY!

A startling sight indeed, to see a bold copper goggling and gasping as he peered cautiously over a Hollywood hedge! It all seemed so foolish to Edythe Marcelle as she looked down from her toad stool, but she agreed to soak up her sunshine back of a screen in the future, so the horrified neighbors could give their spyglasses a much-needed rest.

DEAN HURT AS CARDS BEATEN

Hit By Batted Ball in First, Cubs Win, 4-3, In Opener

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, April 16. (AP)—A 4 to 3 defeat and near-tragedy to the great Dizzy Dean, the man who holds their pennant hopes in his right hand, rode with the St. Louis Cardinals today as they opened their 1935 flag drive against the Chicago Cubs before 15,500 shivering customers at Wrigley field.

A hot drive off the bat of Freddie Lindstrom in the first inning, a smash that caught the Cardinal pitching star above the left ankle and laid him low.

An X-ray picture at a nearby hospital failed to reveal a fracture and it was the opinion of his attending physician and trainer that Ol' Diz will be back on the firing line within a week.

Hartnett Leads Drive

Dean, was in a jam when he was struck. Augie Galan, who started the Cub attack with a single and then raced to third on a sacrifice by Billy Herman and a wild throw by Pepper Martin, was poised for a dash home as Lindstrom swung at Dizzy's sweeping curves. Suddenly, he caught one of the slants and it went straight at Dizzy. He didn't have a chance to get out of the way of the low drive. The ball crashed against his left ankle, caromed toward the first base line with Dizzy after it. As he reached for the ball, he suddenly toppled over.

Gabby Hartnett, the old man of the Cub team, provided the punch that hauled down the high-flying Red Birds. Gabby didn't get a chance at Dean but thereafter assaulted Bud Tinning and Ray Harrell, a Cardinal farm hand from Rochester, with a home run, double and single. Hartnett clinched the game in the eighth for Lon Warneke, who was belted for 12 hits, by doubling against the center field fence to score Lindstrom with the fourth and final run after the Cards had tied it up at 3-all in their half of the same inning.

Cold Weather Balks Opening at Detroit

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Major league baseball launched new pennant campaigns Tuesday and overcame the handicap of widespread cold weather with a series of spectacular developments that found George Herman Ruth and Jerome (Dizzy) Dean and other veterans of the game taking full possession of the spotlight.

Rising once more to the occasion, Ruth, fat and 41, celebrated his entry into the National league after 21 brilliant years in the American by taking full charge of the Boston Braves' 4 to 2 victory over Bill Terrys New York Giants. Swinging against Carl Hubbell's southpaw slants, the mighty Bambino whacked out a first inning single and a fifth inning home run—the 724th of his major league career—to personally account for all four Braves' runs.

Two Games Postponed

At Chicago the world champion St. Louis Cardinals not only lost their opening game to the Chicago Cubs but Dizzy Dean fell victim to a vicious line drive from Freddy Lindstrom's bat in the first inning. The drive struck Dean on the left leg but he suffered no more than a painful bruise.

With cold weather forcing postponement of two American league games—the Philadelphia Athletics' joust with the Senators at Washington and the champion Detroit Tigers' home opening against the Chicago White Sox—the aggregate attendance was 103,187 for six games as against 187,053 for eight a year ago. A total of 70,900 turned out for the four National league inaugurals as against 104,717 in 1934. For the two American league contests, the total was 32,287 against 82,336 a year ago.

The biggest crowd—29,287 in the Yankee stadium—saw the Ruthless New Yorkers drop a 1-0 battle to Joe Cronin's battling Boston Red Sox.

Sensational pitching also marked the other American league game at St. Louis where Mel Harder gave up only eight hits in a 2 to 1, 14 inning triumph over Rogers Hornsby's Browns. A double by Glen Myatt broke up the ball game.

Attendance figures for the Browns' opener were 3,000; for the Cubs 15,500; for the Phillies 3,000; for the Braves, 25,000, and for Cincinnati, 27,400.

TRY AGAIN TODAY

Detroit, April 16. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox—weather permitting—will pry the lid off their American league schedules tomorrow afternoon at Navin field.

The clubs were to have opened the season today, to the tune of a band and the roars of a crowd of 30,000. But the weather man didn't cooperate. Navin field, light traces of snow whirling across its broad expanse on cold, wintry winds, presented more the appearance of a gridiron than it did a diamond.

Manager Mickey Cochrane was not expected to change his mind about his starting pitcher. Schoolboy Rowe is expected to pitch. He probably will be opposed by Sad Sam Jones.

Cleveland Goes 14 Innings, Nips St. Louis Browns

St. Louis, April 16. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians opened the American league season here today by defeating the St. Louis Browns 2 to 1 in fourteen innings. A crowd of 3,500 watched the game.

Manager Rogers Hornsby, subbing for Jack Burns, ailing first baseman, accounted for the lone St. Louis run in the first inning, batting in West who had knocked a three bagger. In the sixth Vosmik, Cleveland left fielder, singled past second scoring Hughes with the tying run.

Glen Myatt put the game on ice in the fourteenth with a double base blow that brought in Berger, who had walked.

Buck Newsom, who before the contest announced he was out to win 20 games this season, was hit for 12 singles. The Browns collected 8 off Mel Harder. Both hurlers went the ful route.

Score by innings:

Cleveland	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	12	2
St. Louis	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	8	1

Harder and Myatt; Newsom and Hemsley.

Brooklyn Defeats Philadelphia, 12-3

Philadelphia, April 16 (AP)—Van Lingle Mungo, ace of the Brooklyn mound staff, personally conducted the Dodgers to a 12 to 3 victory over the Phillies today as the National league season opened in Philadelphia with only 3,000 shivering fans in the stands.

The big right-hander set the Phillies down with five hits, fanning six, and drove in five runs as he connected with three singles in five times at the bat. Danny Taylor and Joe Stripp also contributed three hits each in the Dodgers' 13-hit attack off three Philadelphia hurlers while Linus Frey crashed through with a homer in the first inning to start the Brooklyn scoring.

Plans New Craft For 1935 Season

Manistee, Mich., April 16. (AP)—Jack Wood of Detroit, holder of the Class C international trophy for outboards, announced today that he is constructing two revolutionary outboard craft here for the 1935 racing season. Wood is the only American driver besides Gar Wood to hold an international speedboat record.

He indicated the new craft, of radical streamline design, would be completed in time for the first of the summer Class C races, which will be at Lake Orion.

World rubber shipments in the last year amounted to 1,010,000 tons, exceeding all previous years.

BAER MATCHED WITH BRADDOCK

Title Fight on June 13, Louis-Carnera Go Is June 25

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, April 16 (AP)—A great boxing revival loomed today for the coming outdoor season as Max Baer accepted Jimmy Braddock as his heavyweight title opponent on June 13, and dates were assigned for a battle between the sensational Joe Louis and Primo Carnera, as well as the third welterweight championship tussle of Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross.

Mike Jacobs, head of the new 20th Century Sporting Club, took a lead of 2 to 1 in his promotional war with Madison Square Garden as he snared the McLarnin-Ross engagement for May 20 at the Polo Grounds, and the Louis-Carnera embroglio for the Yankee stadium June 25.

The Garden, with Baer tied up, landed the heavyweight title match, but only after lengthy arguments with Ancil Hoffman, manager of the champion, and final concession that gave the titleholder the radio rights to the affair as well as 42½ per cent of the net proceeds.

If Baer wins the Garden's domination of heavyweight championship affairs, unbroken since Tex Rickard first tied up Jack Dempsey, ceases, for the Californian has no holdover contract this time for another fight. Braddock did agree to defend the title for the Garden if he won.

Canzoneri vs. Ambers

The outdoor campaign was launched at the offices of the New York state athletic commission where the fathers accepted Barney Ross' resignation as lightweight champion paving the way for his rubber engagement with McLarnin. Barney won their first meeting last June to become double champion of the lightweights and welterweights, but lost the latter crown on a close decision to the Irishman last September.

To relieve the lack of a lightweight ruler, the commission decided to recognize the winner of a fifteen round match May 10 in the Garden between Tony Canzoneri, former champion, and Lou Ambers, bounding youngster from Herkimer, N. Y.

Only by resigning his title did Ross evade a lightweight tilt with Ambers, designated his No. 1 foe here. By removing himself from the 135 pound class, on the plea he could no longer make the weight, Ross saved the more lucrative engagement with McLarnin.

Ambers promised the commission that if he beats Canzoneri he will be ready within 90 days to defend the title against any one of the several lightweights who asked that the situation be thrown wide open through an elimination tournament. Frankie Klick, Cleto Locatelli, Honey Mellody of Boston and two South Americans, Emilo Escuda and Simon Guerra, all sought to get into a tournament.

Baer expects to go into training at Asbury Park about May 1, while Braddock probably will start work a week later at some mountain resort. Braddock's contract calls for 15 per cent of the receipts, largest percentage awarded a title challenger in several years.

Heydler Advocates Week Later Start

Philadelphia, April 16 (AP)—John A. Heydler, chairman of the board of directors of the National League, after watching the opening Phillies and Brooklyn game which ended amid swirling snow, today asserted baseball would be better off if it opened a week later than the usual starting date.

"This opinion was not formed because of this year's conditions," declared Heydler. "I came to this conclusion after watching the clubs open under poor weather conditions for several years past."

PIONEER WOMAN DIES

Iron Mountain.—Mrs. Margaret Hayes Flanagan, aged 79, pioneer resident of Dickinson county and widow of the founder of the village of Sagola, died at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Newkirk, Brown street, Norway following an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Flanagan was born February 18, 1856, in Cleveland, Ohio When she was 15 years of age, the family moved to Hollandtown, Wis., where she finished her schooling. She then taught school in that district until her marriage in 1877 to Patrick Flanagan at that time superintendent of schools in Outagamie county.

MAN SHOT HIMSELF

Menominee.—An investigation of the shooting of Steve Machut, 55, Meyer township farmer, who is in General hospital at Iron Mountain, has disclosed that Machut accidentally shot himself in the head with a .22 caliber rifle while looking for rats in his kitchen, according to a report from Sheriff Edward Reindl.

Mr. Machut told Philip Machut and other relatives who visited him at the Iron Mountain hospital Saturday that Friday morning about six o'clock he loaded the small caliber rifle and took it to the kitchen to shoot some rats he had seen there. The gun accidentally discharged and a bullet struck him under the chin, passed upward back of the eye and lodged in the left side of his head.

22 CAMPS PLANNED

Sault Ste. Marie.—Fort Brady today awaited word from Washington to put in motion machinery for establishing 22 new Civilian Conservation Corps camps in the upper peninsula, bringing the total north of the Straits to 51.

Facilities of the post, Major Sevier R. Tupper, commanding officer said, will be taxed to the extent that it will be impossible to have a Citizens Military Training Camp here this summer.

The relief bill, passed last week by congress, allocates $600,000,000 for CCC work and expansion. Out of this fund will come money for establishing 22 new camps north of the Straits, all of them administered through Fort Brady Elimination of the CMTC was necessary due to the extra work that will fall to the Sault army post. North Michigan C. M. C. trainees will be sent to Camp Custer this year.

Wants Fund Increased

Marquette—Martin M. Johnston, music instructor in the Graveraet and Junior high schools and director of the city band, told the city commission last night that he would sever his connections with the band this year unless the appropriation for it is increased from $1,200 to $2,000.

Of the proposed $1,200 appropriation Mr. Johnston would receive $400 and the band members $800. If the appropriation is increased to $2,000, as Mr. Johnston requests, he would receive $800 and the band members $1,200.

FERRELL HURLS TWO-HIT GAME

Boston Opens Season at New York With 1-0 Triumph

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, April 16 (AP)—The new model, stream-lined Yankees, looking impotent indeed without Babe Ruth in the line-up, yielded to the superb pitching of Wesley Ferrell today in a frigid opening tussle with the Boston Red Sox.

With brother Rick Ferrell on the receiving end of baseball's most famous family battery, the North Carolina right-hander held the New Yorkers to two hits, outpitched the great Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, the American league's leading flinger, and gained a brilliant 1-0 decision.

A shivering crowd of 29,287 fans, entertained by the customary flag-raising parade and Mayor La Guardia's opening pitch, turned out to see what the Yankees looked like without Ruth for the first time in 15 years. At best they were just another ball club.

Issued No Passes

A fourth inning single by George Selkirk, Ruth's successor, and a booming double by Captain Lou Gehrig with two out in the seventh represented the total of the Yankee "bombardment." Theye were the only Yankees to get on base as Ferrell issued no pasess, throttled the Yankees in order in seven innings and pitched to only 29 men.

Gomez yielded only six hits, including three doubles, but contributed to his own downfall in the sixth as the Red Sox tallied the only run of the game. Max Bishop was thrown out trying to steal after hitting safely but Bill Werber, a former Yankee, doubled to left and scored on successive wild throws by Gomez and Captain Gehrig. The Sox speedster got to third when Gomez threw badly on an attempt to pick off the runner. Werber then dashed for the plate, as Bill Dickey dropped the third strike on Carl Reynolds, and slid safely home when Gehrig's return throw got away from the Yankee backstop.

HIGHWAY US-2 PAVING ASKED

Urges Closing of Gap Between Spalding to Dickinson

Iron Mountain—Paving of 12 miles of U. S. 2 from Spalding, in Menominee county, to the Dickinson county line—an improvement which would provide a continuous stretch of paved highway from Iron Mountain to Escanaba—is urged in a resolution adopted by the Menominee county board of supervisors.

Supervisor W. B. Earle, of Meyer township, submitted the resolution, stating that a previous petition asking for the improvement of U. S. 41 should have included the provision for paving U. S. 2. He explained that the paving of the 12-mile link would improve one of the most difficult stretches on the through north and south route in upper Michigan.

Text of Resolution

The resolution, passed unanimously and copies of which were sent to Governor Fitzgerald, Highway Commissioner Van Wagoner and members of the state administrative board, follows:

"The Menominee county board of supervisors requests that since there has been a petition to pave all of U. S. highway 41 in Menominee county, that you also strongly consider the paving of that part of U. S. highway 2 between Spalding and the Dickinson county line.

"Said action will make U. S. highway 2 fully paved from Iron Mountain to Escanaba."

Menominee county officials will find strong endorsement for the project among residents of Dickinson county who travel frequently over the route, and who have long complained of the irregular black-top stretch that it is now proposed to improve.

In the case of a leaky intake manifold or defective carburetor heat riser, the engine will perform essentially the same as it would with worn intake valve guides.

JOHN GILLESPIE MISSING AGAIN

terday at Achard's ranch house, roughly dressed and wearing a 12-day growth of whiskers, he said he left Detroit because "I wanted to pull myself together and prevent myself from anything hasty."

He expressed resentment over a statement by the governor that he was "the type of citizen which the administration wants to avoid." He said he would not return to "civilization" until the governor either withdrew his remark or "produced any fact that would be detrimental to my character."

"I was in a barber shop this morning when I saw John go by," Achard related. "I called to him, but he paid no attention. Two hours later, I was told at the garage that he had paid his bill and taken his car out. I have no idea where he has gone."

Lansing, Mich., April 16. (AP)—Reports that John Gillespie, Detroit politician, was missing again caused secretaries to Governor Fitzgerald to post an enlarged guard of state police in the executive office today. Three plain clothes officers were on duty.

The governor was irked by the continued furore over Gillespie's whereabouts.

"This has gone past the humorous stage," the governor said. "Why should it be necessary to stage a man hunt for a man said to be armed and who made threats against others to me and then not do anything about it when he is found. It seems to be it is about time something was done to stop this comic opera pursuit. It is strange if there is not some way of ending the thing."

Anti-Communist Bill Is Backed By Legion Post

Support of senate bill No. 292, introduced in the legislature at Lansing by Senators Dunckel and Baldwin, was voted by the Escanaba American Legion post at their regular meeting Monday night. The bill is directed at communistic activities in the state and other movements spreading propaganda for the overthrow of the government.

Plans for a Mothers' day observance, sponsored nationally by the Legion, were discussed at the meeting, and a joint conference with the Auxiliary was voted to outline the program. Dr. C. J. Corcoran was named chairman of the committee to represent the Legion.

Announcement was made that tickets are now available at the office of the adjutant, N. P. Thompson, for the Easter Monday dance to be given Monday evening, April 22, at Terrace Gardens under the auspices of Cloverland Post 82.

AMUSEMENTS

Terrace Gardens will reopen following the Lenten season, with an opening dance Saturday evening, at which Jack Cameron and his popular orchestra of Appleton will play.

The program will feature a floor show with Jeanette Cameron in novelty dancing and acrobatic stunts.

The management of Terrace Gardens has arranged an excellent program of Saturday dance programs for the spring and summer season.
